PASSES GAS BILL AS EMERGENCY

U. S. UNIVERSITY STRUCK IN NEW JAP AIR RAIDS

Canton Bombed Again, Toll Raised to 3,000 Killed, 5,000 Others Wounded.

500,000 CIVILIANS FLEE

Burning Oil Tanks Spread Flames to Rail Terminal, Set Fire to Train.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American government protested to the Japanese counsel general at Hong Kong today against the bombing by Japanese airplanes of the campus of the American-endowed Lingnam university at Canton.

(By Associated Press)

CANTON, China — Two new bombardments today raised civilian casualties in this crippled city to at least 3,000 killed and 5,000 wounded in 12 successive days of Japanese air raids.

Two American-owned properties, the Lingham University and oil tanks of the Standard Oil company, were struck by Japanese bombs.

The tanks burst into flame, spreading a conflagration that burned the terminal of the Canton-Hankow railroad and a 16-car train that just had arrived from Hankow, temporary seat of China's government.

300 Killed on Island.

At least 300 new civilian casualties were inflicted on Honam Island, an industrial district. Several Japanese bombs, apparently aimed at the Pearl river bridge, exploded in Honam's congested areas, demolishing about 100 houses.

It was estimated fully 500,000 inhabitants of this war-crowded city of about 1,000,000 had fled. About one-third of its residences have been vacated.

No accurate list of dead and injured could be compiled because many bodies still were buried in the debris of wrecked buildings with rescue squads unable to keep pace with the destruction.

A direct hit on Canton's power station cut off electric power, disabling the city's air alarm system and crippling hospital services.

Police dashed from house to house ringing doorbells to warn inhabitants as the Japanese planes came over, first before daybreak and later in mid-morning.

Hospitals lacked current for refrigerators to preserve serums and operate x-ray apparatus, and

As Japanese armies in the north rolled along the Lunghai railroad in a drive on Hankow, and Japanese bombers killed 3,000 in Canton, approximately 300,000 civilian inhabitants of the Chinese capital on the Yangtse, 500 miles inland, began evacuating. Observers said they believed it was "the beginning of the end" as far as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's defense of Hankow and the middle Yangtse valley was concerned. The generalissimo announced that China's new defense line would be a range of mountains between the Lunghai railroad and Hankow.

COUNCIL BACKS RATE RENEWAL BY 8 TO 1 VOTE

Emergency Clause Makes Rate Effective Upon Acceptance by Gas Company.

HAS 30 DAYS TO DECIDE

Ordinance Continues Present Schedule 3 Years; Berg Holds Out for Cut.

City council today had written into its records a new gas rate ordinance passed last night as emergency measure by a vote of 8 to 1.

A new ordinance incorporating the emergency clause, which makes the rates effective upon acceptance by the Ohio Fuel Gas company, was submitted to council last night by Russell D. Porch, chairman of council's utilities committee. The action continues the rate ordinance which expired May 15.

Measure Goes to Utility.

The measure now goes to the gas company which will have 30 days to either accept or reject the rate schedule.

With all members present, George Berg, councilman-at-large, cast the only negative vote, holding out for a lower rate.

Berg said that he was opposed to the 65-cent rate and told other council members at a caucus session before the meeting that he could not vote for the measure. He said he was against the present rates three years ago and "hadn't changed his mind any."

At the caucus it was agreed that the new ordinance, identical to the one which had been given first and second readings at two special meetings, with the exception of an emergency clause, would be submitted in order to establish "some sort of a rate for Mansfield."

Eliminates 30-Day Wait.

City Solicitor Mariod D. Ward recommended that the new ordinance be passed as an emergency rather than approve the one which had been given the first two readings. He explained under the first set-up it would be 30 days until the measure became effective, in which time the gas company could file its own rate with the utilities commission in Columbus.

As it now stands, the gas company will have 30 days in which to appeal to the commission for a higher rate. Should it decide on that course, it would be required to prove that the present rates did not provide sufficient return on its investment. At the same time the city would have to show

100 PETITIONS FLOOD BOARD

First Contest for County Post Develops as Committee Entries Pour in.

The first contest for a county office in the Aug. 9 primary developed today, two days before the filing deadline, as nearly 100 petitions flooded the county board of elections.

The contest will be for the Republican nomination for county representative as the result of the filing of L. Max Daugherty of Mansfield.

A newcomer in political circles, Daugherty will oppose Harry H. Maxwell of Lexington for the G. O. P. nomination. Daugherty's petition, filed this morning with the county board of elections, bore more than 300 signatures.

Lutz Unopposed.

No opposition had appeared today for Ralph C. Lutz, of Lexington, incumbent representative, who filed yesterday for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket.

The approaching deadline for filing for the primary brought nearly 100 central committee petitions to the election board today, with R. M. Hardy, county Republican central committee chairman, filing almost a complete slate for his party. Until today, only two Republicans had filed for the 92 central committee posts.

G. O. P. To Have Full Slate.

Hardy, who is committeeman from Madison township precinct B, said Republicans would have a full slate of committee candidates by Friday, the filing deadline.

Approximately half of the county's 92 precincts were represented today in Democratic petitions for central committee membership. Neither Democrats nor Republicans anticipated any contests within party ranks for county committee posts, although Earl A. McFarland and R. B. Gardner, both Mansfielders are opposing each other for 17th district Republican committeeman.

E. B. Kallmerten, Mansfield, Democratic executive committee chairman, was still unopposed today for the district central committee post in his party ranks. County and district committee members are elected at the August primary.

Puts Two-Mill Relief Levy Up to Electorate

Council Unanimous In Adopting Resolution Placing Problem On Ballot In Primary; Plan Would Raise $90,000 Annually.

Mansfield's relief problem which has become acute in recent months because of the lack of funds, was tossed into the lap of the city's electorate today.

A two-mill levy that is intended to raise $90,000 annually during 1939 and 1940 to finance direct relief, will be placed on the ballot in the Aug. 9 primary.

A resolution authorizing a vote on this question was adopted unanimously last night by city council.

The two-mill assessment which would be levied on real estate outside the 10-mill limitation, would increase taxes $2 on every $1,000 of property valuation during the two years it would be in effect.

Clerk to Notify Board.

A copy of the resolution will be filed with the Richland county board of elections by Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., before the filing deadline Friday.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter who submitted the measure to council explained that the levy should raise approximately $90,000 annually.

City Auditor Paul Kelley pointed out that the tax levy would be "something definite to work on."

"It is just a starting point,"

TAG DAY TO END FUND'S APPEAL

75 Women Will Seek Funds in Downtown Section Saturday in Emergency Drive.

Bright and early Saturday morning—at least they hope it will be bright—75 young Mansfield women in their most becoming hats and rouge will take over the downtown streets for a grand slam in the emergency campaign for the Community Fund.

In other words, Mansfield is going to have its first tag day in several years.

Young matrons have agreed to put off making strawberry preserves; school teachers have promised to put off a much needed "relaxation" after the ending of the school year; pretty girls bent on week-end trips and parties have decided that they can make one Big Sacrifice for their community —all of them will take to the downtown streets Saturday at 9 a. m to "tag" every person with an orange ticket which bears the words: "I'VE GIVEN AGAIN."

At a meeting of the emergency drive committee last night at the library the tag day was decided upon in the hope that an additional $1,000 might be added to the amount already raised.

Every worker will wear a tag distinguishing her. Headquarters for reports will be at the Y. M. C. A.

Only a little over $600 has been realized to date in the emergency drive and this sum includes pledges made previously but which had not been turned in at Community Fund headquarters before the drive for $6,000 in six days had started. Everything turned in on pledge cards this week will be counted in the emergency fund drive, according to Jesse Beer, chairman of the week's campaign.

The emergency drive, which follows a Community Fund campaign that lasted four weeks and fell short of the $53,950 goal by a little more than $6,000, opened Monday and will close Saturday night.

TRAFFIC HEADS CONVENE HERE

160 Officials of Railroads and Industries Join in Club's Annual Outing Today.

Forgetting business for the day and intent on acquiring a "tan" and getting their golf games under way, 160 traffic officials from railroads and industries in Ohio gather at Westbrook country club today for the annual outing of the Central Ohio Traffic club.

More than 100 golfers were registered for matches this morning and this afternoon, while golf prizes will be awarded at a dinner at 7 p. m. today by C. E. Denney, Cleveland, president of the Erie railroad company.

Erie Sends Delegation.

Denney arrived in the city early today with a party of more than a dozen Erie officials from Cleveland, Chicago, New York, and Ohio and Pennsylvania cities. In the group were R. E. Woodruff, Cleveland, vice president of the company; Carl Howe, Chicago, vice president; George C. Manning, New York, assistant vice president; E. J. Dean and George A. Lamb, Cleveland, assistant vice presidents; George F. Weston, Cleveland, Erie industrial commissioner; C. C Howard, Cleveland, passenger traffic manager; L. R. Compromise Looms In Wage-Hour Law Fight

But Capital Hears Reports Conferees Will Defy Southern Bloc's Filibuster Threat In Demand For Flexible Standards.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Congressional conferees on the wages and hours bill appeared ready today to compromise on fundamental differences despite reports that they would defy threats of a filibuster by rescinding their capitulation to southern demands for a flexible wage provision.

Supported by only a one-vote margin in each house, southerners believed that they had won their fight for flexibility in the law above the 30-cent wage minimum which was established to meet house demands for rigidity.

However, reports circulated that conferees who had voted for the flexible wage feature would not support it when the final vote is taken. This was reported after President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, who insists on a rigid minimum wage of 25 cents an hour increasing to 40 cents in three years, spent yesterday at the capitol interviewing senators and representatives.

Vote Tentative Acceptance.

The senate conferees voted 4 to 3 to accept tentatively flexible provisions and specified exemptions If Green could win a reversal of one vote the conferees would be

NO ACTION

City Holds Up on Kallmerten Pre-Mix Plan.

No action had been taken by city officials today on the proposal of E. B. Kallmerten, Democratic chairman, that the city use a "premixed" concrete, handled exclusively by his firm, in its sidewalk program.

Kallmerten, president of Kallmerten and Baer, proposed the arrangement in conferences yesterday with Mayor C. M. Hunter, Safety-Service Director Tracy C. Styert, and Tod Patton, sidewalk inspector. Hunter said he would take the proposal up with other officials, but both Styert and Patton indicated their opposition to it, arguing that it would eliminate as many as 50 WPA workers. No conference had been held up to noon today.

Kallmerten had claimed that unless the city agreed to his plan, he might have to lay off some of his own employes.

COLORADO SPRINGS — (AP) — Residents of this city at the base of Pike's Peak glanced at the Calendar twice today to make sure it's June.

CAMBRIDGE — (INS) — Four members of a Pennsylvania freight train crew and a stock handler were injured today when the double-header train of 48 cars ran into an open switch at Kimbolton, 10 miles north of Cambridge.

Two engines and 14 cars overturned and several head of cattle were killed.

Meechy and 6 Bandsmen Find Crawford Jail 'Lone Prair-ee'

"Montana" Meechy and six members of his cowboy band were still far from the "lone prair-ee" of their musical lore today—and they didn't even have their guitars, harmonicas, banjoes and other music-making devices to keep them company.

Neither did they have $4,500. That's the reason they are where they are—still in the county jail at Bucyrus.

Meechy and his bandsmen pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of shooting with intent to kill when arraigned before Justice of Peace J. N. Taylor of Bucyrus and were held to the Crawford county grand jury.

Bond for Meechy and his 20-year-old son, Ben, was set at $1,000 each, and the five other band members were held under $500 bond each.

Arrested at Columbus Monday just as they were ready to broadcast from a radio station, Meechy and his bandsmen were haled into court after they allegedly figured in a free-for-all battle last Thursday night at the Sugar Grove lake dance hall, near Bucyrus.

Charges were filed by Kenzel McClenathan, 22, of Galion, who told officers that Meechy hit him over the head with the butt of a revolver and another member of the band shot at him.

McClenathan said the fight resulted from a friendly scuffle he had with a friend on the dance floor, to which Meechy objected.

Other members of the Meechy band troupe, all of whom live in Columbus, are Charwick Beringer, Robert Reeves, G. E. Davis, Robert Clowner and Gail Hayner.

TEMPER FLARES

Allen Says He'll Wear Old Sweat Shirt in N. Y. Game.

BOSTON —(AP)— Johnny Allen, Cleveland Indian pitcher who walked off the field yesterday and refused to remove his ventilated sweat shirt, threatened today to wear the disputed garment again.

Allen, whose temper rivals his speed ball, asserted he would don the shirt in New York Saturday if the weather is hot.

"I want to learn right here and now how this baseball business is run," insisted Allen, who was fined $250 by Manager Oscar Vitt after he refused to obey Umpire Bill McGowan's order to take the shirt off.

"I wore that shirt all last season without anyone complaining. There's not so much as a loose thread waving in the wind."

VOLCANO ACTIVE

Natives Terrified as Crater Belches Molten Rock.

MANILA—(AP)—Authorities tried vainly today to calm thousands of terrified natives within sight of belching Mayon volcano whose periodic eruptions frightened one man to death and drove another insane.

People in the region near the southern tip of Luzon island became more excited hourly as the volcano rumbled almost continuously and erupted at intervals of about three hours.

Panic spread when the volcano blew off this afternoon, throwing up a great pillar of smoke and vapor and hurling vast quantities of incandescent rock into the sky.

The crater top was hidden by the smoke cloud through which the sun peered like a blood red eye.

FESTIVAL OPENS

VAN WERT—(UP)—Visitors by the thousands streamed into Van Wert today for the seventh annual peony festival, glorifying the beauty of the community's famed flower gardens.

Growing of fine peonies has been a specialty of private and commercial interests here for 38 years. Approximately 50,000 persons were expected to see this year's flower display.

13 VOTES BEAT HALL PROPOSAL

$14,000 Butler Township Bond Issue Turned Down.

Their proposed $14,000 bond issue defeated by 13 votes at a special election yesterday, Butler township trustees will have to continue to hold their sessions in a substitute township hall.

The bond issue, which would have provided funds for a new hall, received 103 favorable votes to 62 against it, but fell short of the 65 per cent majority required for approval of bond issues.

The 165 votes cast represented approximately half of the voting population of the township.

Ralph DeMoss, member of the board of trustees, said today that a meeting would be called soon to decide when to submit the proposal again. Township meetings have been held in the school building at Adario since last December when the old township hall was destroyed by fire.

The proposal submitted yesterday would have increased the Butler township tax rate from 14.20 to 16.46 mills per $1,000 valuation. The bonds would have been retired over a period of 15 years.

Record Field Predicted For News-Journal's Second Derby

A record field of home-made coasting cars will vie for fame and glory in the second annual News-Journal Soap Box Derby to be staged late in July. Donald D. Cram of the Y. M. C. A., director of the racing event, predicted today.

Registrations for the Mansfield derby opened Monday, and already 23 entries have been filed.

More than 100 cars were entered in the first running of the spectacle last year, but Cram believes that the 1937 total will be exceeded by a big margin

Boys out in the county as well as in Mansfield have been stung by the Soap Box Derby bug.

The first-out-of-town entry was filed by Jack Smith of route 5, a student at Maple Grove school. Youths of Shelby, Plymouth, Butler, Bellville and other Richland county centers are expected to bolster the out-of-town entry.

Included among the Mansfield entries is David Todd, 13, of 60 Garfield place, who won the Class B championship last year. He was defeated in the run-off with the Class A winner by Lester Griebling, who represented Mansfield in the All-American finals in Akron. Griebling will not defend his title this year as former winners are not eligible to compete.

Entries may be filed at the Y. M. C. A. or Mohican Chevrolet company, The News-Journal's co-sponsors. Boys must be accompanied by parents or legal guardians. The age limit is 9 to 15 years. Boys must be accompanied by parents or legal guardians. The age limit is 9 to 15 years.

Senate Takes Up House Appeal for U. S. Relief Funds

20 MILLIONS ASKED IN PLEA TO CONGRESS

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Speaker Frank Uible of the house of representatives said that he will appoint late today a nine-member Democratic house committee in another attempt to work out an acceptable state relief program.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—A house approved resolution asking congress to make $20,000,000 in federal funds available for direct relief in Ohio went to the senate for consideration today over protests that the legislature was trying to evade its own responsibility.

The action was in line with a plan to urge the federal government, despite previous rebuffs, to assume the major burden of relief financing in Ohio, once the general assembly has passed a new $1,500,000 stop-gap bill to relieve the immediate crisis in the state's hard hit industrial centers.

Floundering helplessly in the relief snarl, leaders looked upon the stop-gap as a way out until it is definitely decided whether congress will earmark funds under the lending-spending program for direct relief.

Seeks Legal Test.

The senate finance committee sought advice from the attorney general's office on the legal soundness of the Connolly bill to appropriate $1,500,000 from 1938 sales tax collections and allow cities to borrow in anticipation. The bill is designed to replace the original $1,000,000 relief loan bill and may be brought to a vote today if legal difficulties are ironed out.

The house, despite charges of refusal to face the issue of relief as a state problem, approved by a viva voce vote the Disalle-De Righter resolution memorializing congress to make $250,000,000 available for direct relief and give Ohio $20,000,000 of it.

Rep. William Whetro (D., Lawrence) voiced the most vigorous protest.

"If we can't solve this problem ourselves, let's get the hell out of here and go home," he said.

The new resort to appeals for federal help was tentatively decided upon at another of Speaker Frank R. Uible's conferences with legislators and lobbyists when it was proved that the proposal to earmark two and one-half per cent of most funds in the state treasury for relief purposes could not be enacted during a special session.

The senate passsed and sent to the house the Lawrence bill authorizing issuance of bonds against 70 per cent of delinquent tax collections for poor relief.

Its sponsors claimed it would make ample funds available for cities, but municipal officials said it would do little good where money is most needed.

Sen. Horace W. Baggott (D., Montgomery) introduced in the senate a bill to license vending machines at a rate of from $3 to $12 annually to raise relief funds.

Woman, Bitten By Snake, Confident Of 'Faith Cure'

HAMMOND, La.— (INS)—Her arm swollen to thrice its normal size, Mrs. Joe Rushing, 56, today showed signs of improvement as she battled for her life after being bitten by a poisonous moccasin as a demonstration of faith at a state convention meeting of the Holy Roller religious sect.

"Faith will cure me," said the woman, as she continued to refuse medical aid and special prayer services for her recovery were held.

Mrs. Rushing was bitten twice by the snake after seven other persons handled the snake without being harmed.

Meanwhile, a school teacher asserted that he had drained the snake of its venom and expressed the opinion that the snake would not kill anyone. He explained the ill effects of the bite by saying that he had "milked" the snake of its poison a week ago and the poison sacs had begun to fill again. He said he had caught the snake for study by his nature class in school.

Iowa G.O.P. Sees Victory at Fall Election

Up and Down THE STREET

The first appearance that the new Red Cross First Aid car made was at Liberty park, Sunday, and workers had an opportunity to demonstrate its value. The first accident was when a girl who stepped in a rut, sprained her ankle and fainted. Workers took her to the house car, revived her and bandaged her ankle. The second accident was a burned arm on a worker at one of the concession. And in the third accident workers dressed a wound in a girl's hand. Both were treated quickly. The Red Cross chapter hopes to make the car a permanent service at all large public gatherings.

In some instances students stand in line to get teachers' autograph while others try to corner teachers while walking down the hall.

NEW CAR READY

First Aid Truck to Be Used at Public Gatherings.

A first aid car has been fitted up by the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross and will appear at all large public gatherings, it was announced today by Harker A. Enlow, director of first aid.

A house car has been rented by the chapter and made its first public appearance at the opening of Liberty park Sunday.

Arrangements have already been made for the Red Cross First Aid car to be at the Soap Box derby, the Fourth of July celebration at the Fairground, every day at the county fair, and also at the Shelby street fair.

The car is plainly marked by Red Cross flags, and is manned by four trained first aid workers, both men and women. It is equipped with all first aid supplies.

Enlow said that the car will be sent to any large gathering if there is a request for it.

'Y' ENDS YEAR WITH $42 CASH

Annual Report Shows Balance; Keeps 'No Deficit' Record Since 1931 Intact.

The Y. M. C. A. completed its fiscal year, which ended June 1, with a balance of $42.07 in its operating budget, it was reported at a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday evening at the Evergreens cafeteria.

The report, submitted by Herman Balyeat, treasurer, showed a total income at the "Y" during the year of $9,852.03, and cost of operations of $9,809.96.

Sources of the income were the Mansfield Community Fund, memberships, rent of the gymnasium, and the sale of soap and towels to those using the showers. Operating costs included heat, light, water, insurance, salaries, and repairs to the building.

The report showed that since the Y. M. C. A. was re-organized in 1931 it has finished each year without a deficit in its operating budget.

The housing committee, headed by R. M. Calene, was instructed to check on the cost of reconditioning of the "Y" swimming pool with the possibility that it may be reopened for use in early fall.

A report of the Y. M. C. A. daytime summer camping program was given by Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary, and reports of the finance committee were given by Harvey Bailey, chairman. Charles Nail, board president, presided at the meeting.

Dr. Rehder said that the clinic will be held from 8:30 a. m. to 10.30 a. m. for the children whose parents were unable to take them to any of the conferences held throughout the county during the past month.

The clinics are held to detect defects in child health so that corrections can be made before the child starts to school in September.

OHIO SENATORS TRADE BLASTS IN TIFF OVER TOWNSEND FLAG

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Bernie McCluskey, astute senator-lawyer from Cleveland, still was carrying the ball for the Townsendites in the Ohio senate today after side-stepping the attempted tackles of Sen. John Myers of Canton.

Senator Myers has been beating the drum for the Townsend old age pension plan for four years, he said. In the last session he introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the federal constitution to put the plan into effect.

The peppery senator from Canton had planned to re-introduce the resolution in the current session when McCluskey, who previously had exhibited but little interest in the proposition, beat him to it.

So yesterday Myers proceeded to tell McCluskey what he thought of him.

"No senator would want to exploit the plight of these aged people," he said. "Yet my colleague from Cleveland tried to make himself a hero and put on one of the greatest one-act political plays we have ever seen."

He asked McCluskey why he introduced the resolution.

"I was asked to by an official of the Townsend national organization," McCluskey replied. "He said he didn't want the senator from Canton to handle the resolution; that the senator was a traitor to the cause."

"I'll leave it to my colleagues whether I'm a traitor to the cause," Myers shouted. "Dr. Townsend (founder of the movement) doesn't think so"

The resolution was referred to the taxation-relief committee over the strong protests of Myers, who contended it should have been considered by the senate in committee of the whole.

BIG VOTE HELD INDICATION OF FALL SUCCESS

Republicans Receive Twice as Many Votes as Dems; Hail Swing Back.

(By United Press)

DES MOINES, Ia.—The polling of almost twice as many Republican as Democratic votes in the Iowa primary presaged a G. O. P. victory in the November election, Republican leaders claimed today.

The Republicans, by an unexpected display of voting strength, shared honors with Sen. Guy M. Gillette, who won the Democratic renomination to the U. S. senate despite opposition of the New Deal.

He defeated Rep. Otha D. Wearin, endorsed by New Deal leaders, by approximately two to one. Lester J. Dickerson won the Republican senatorial nomination from Rep. Lloyd Thurston by 40,258 votes.

Complete, unofficial returns from the state's 2,447 precincts, gave Gillettee 82,142, Wearin, 44,955; and Dickinson, 149,595, Thurston, 109,337. The total vote of the three Democratic minority candidates was 34,919.

Loses 84 Counties.

Wearin, who had received support of Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administration chief, and James Roosevelt, son of the president, led in only 15 of the state's 99 counties. Gillette took the rest and eight of the nine congressional districts.

Both Republicans and anti-New Dealers were jubilant over Gillette's victory and interpreted it as a defeat for the national administration at the hands of the Iowa Democratic state machine. The heavy Republican vote brought varying reactions from leaders of both parties.

The Republicans pronounced it as evidence of a swing back to the G. O. P. The Democratic leaders, however, pointed to the fact they were outpolled two to one in the primary two years ago but were victorious in the general election of 1936.

In the contest for governor, George A. Wilson, the Republican candidate, polled twice as large a vote as Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, the Democratic choice. Neither was opposed.

Incumbent members of congress, with the exception of Wearin and Thurston, were renominated without difficulty.

Those who spoke were William Hipp, Joseph Sherrer, Edward Burghard, William Knittle and Christy Webber, of Plymouth. John Miller, president of the organization presided at the meeting.

Figures On Sweepstakes Cause Doubt On Extent Of Gambling In America

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The recent distribution of easy money to a few Americans through the Irish sweepstakes revives the yearnings of many citizens for an official national lottery to be conducted for the benefit of the United States treasury and the relief of the taxpayers. Proposals have been made in congress to organize such a gamble, usually with a prediction that the government would receive a billion a year on the basis of a 40 per cent take. That would mean a gross business of $2,500,000,000 a year.

These predictions are all dream stuff, however. They are made of hope and conjecture, and they ignore the known facts.

* * *

It is a known fact that in 1935, in the eighteen American states which permitted and supervised racing by running and harness horses and dogs, the total amount gambled was only $257,562,000, a little more than a quarter of a billion dollars. This excludes the racing in New York state and New Orleans, on which there were no data because of the absence of official supervision. The total return to the eighteen states was only $8,976,000.

This was open, legal gambling, and the figures would seem to embarrass the enormous estimates which the police and prosecutors place upon the penny-ante numbers racket.

* * *

One reads of the millions handled by furtive, underworld creatures such as the late "Dutch" Schultz, of New York, and his political silent partners, but, comparing the method and the average amount of the bets with the horse park traffic, one is compelled to doubt. A "Dutch" Schultz with a flash roll of $10,000 in currency may seem to be a millionaire. But it is known that the numbers racket deals in bets on pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters and must operate more or less secretly. It is hard to believe that the numbers racket handles as much as the licensed race tracks, with their open facilities and publicity.

* * *

The British are great gamblers, but the Glasgow Herald, in a careful survey of the football pools, which roughly correspond to the numbers racket in this country, except that they are legal and widely advertised, found that the gross handle for a season of 36 weeks was not more than $200,000,000. The football pools pretend to operate on a parimutuel system, but there is no assurance that they do, because the British law does not regulate them. Ostensibly they retain only 5 per cent as profit, but that is only what the operators say.

The Irish sweep conducts three pools a year, and it is understood that this country, Ireland's best customer since the British placed a legal boycott on the sweep, buys about 50 per cent of the tickets. It is hard to obtain true figures on the amount of the American trade, but in last year's Cesarewitch it was announced that the Americans had bought about $7,000,000 of an issue slightly less than $14,000,000.

* * *

If this figure may be taken as an index we buy $7,000,000 worth of Irish sweep tickets three times a year, a total of $21,000,000, which looks very puny in comparison with the hundreds of millions which we are said to export to Ireland. These hundreds of millions of dream money are cited as one of the strongest arguments in favor of an American national lottery. The idea is to keep the money at home. But if the amount is only $21,000,000 a year it is unimportant economically.

Anyway, the real figures, whenever it is possible to dig them out, discourage the idea that this country gambles in billions or would gamble in billions if we had a lottery. There is no law against wishing, but the statistics are against fulfillment.

* * *

As to the morality of the sweep, there is little to be said in opposition when many of the state permit open gambling on the races and take a percentage. But it can be pointed out, in addition to the apparent overestimate of the probable profits, that we have one of the few countries on earth which have no national lottery and that those countries which do have them are not conspicuously happy. In theory lotteries may be very tempting, but in practice the nations which use them soon find themselves no better off.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jetta Goudal, who was once described in a court suit by her then employer Cecil B. DeMille as a "cocktail of emotions," won the legal right to be "temperamental" as a result of that battle. The court held that an actress's "temperament" was part of her equipment.

It was a fine victory, although by coincidence Jetta never worked importantly again. She has been happily married for some years now to Harold Grieve, prominent interior decorator, and she works with her husband at his profession.

Not long ago one of her former studio associates, with whom she had tangled more than once, encountered her and was greeted most pleasantly. Jetta's friendly remarks, as reported by him: "It is so much fun not being in pictures any more. I can enjoy life and—just think!—I don't have to be mean about anything!"

* * *

It would be interesting to trace the rise of the school of stellar thought that holds a star, to be successful, must be "difficult." It certainly ante-dated Jetta Goudal, for some of Hollywood's best temperament tales reached circulation in the period from 1915 to 1920 when stars were first feeling their oats.

The director, Josef von Sternberg, was a disciple, if not the high priest, of the theory. Joe had made a quickie called "Salvation Hunters" which won the support of the quick-growing colony's "intelligentsia." Even before that, showman that he was, he had made it his business to be as spectacularly insulting as possible to the right people.

"I've just made five new enemies," he once chuckled, confidentially, to some cronies.

It was Pola Negri's own idea, apparently, as she came before Joe. Her battles with Gloria Swanson became Hollywood legend. Pola's campaign, as she admitted privately when pressed, was logical. "There are many girls in Hollywood prettier than Negri—so Negri must be different!"

But Marlene Dietrich, who can be as sweet as pie when she wants to be, undoubtedly took instruction direct from her mentor, von Sternberg.

That director set her off beautifully at a studio luncheon presenting her to the assembled press. "Miss Dietrich," he remarked in effect, "is not only beautiful but is far more intelligent than anyon here present."

* * *

Miss Dietrich's popularity or lack of it with many members of the correspondent corps, especially the feminine contingent, may be said to date from that moment, but in subsequent years she has shown herself to be an apt pupil. Marlay-nah's not mean—she just has the reputation of being "difficult," which probably is truly part of "glamour."

Simone Simon came from France with certain ideas of her own about how "difficile" a foreign star should be, and immediately began living up to them. Later, repentant, she confided to intimates that she had been inspired by the advice of another foreign star—and Hollywood said, "Dietrich?"

* * *

The "be hard to handle" theory, of course, is proved fallacious by many of our most successful stars, who get ahead by being themselves and being darn good actors and actresses. People like Warner Baxter, Ronald Colman, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, Ginger Rogers — all of them rather well established—are not devoid of occasional flashes of "temperament" but they manage to be consistently human and regular people for all that.

Deserting Husband Her Problem

By VIRGINIA LEE

LONESOME AND WORRIED is still a young girl—22 years old—but she has been married four years and has two children. Her husband left her a week ago, and the poor girl is so desperate she doesn't know what to do. The husband says he never will live with her again.

She charges that he goes with a gang of young men and does whatever they say. If she wants him to go anywhere with her he says, "Wait until I come back," and then he doesn't come back. He loves the children and says he will do anything for them. It makes her feel dreadful when he comes to see them and makes a fuss over them, when her heart is aching with love for him.

The trouble seems to have started when the husband got into some kind of trouble and his wife, thinking it was for his own good, told on him. "That is one thing he hates me for," she writes in her somewhat incoherent letter. "He has been a swell man to me," she says, until these last eight months, when he has done what his boy friends tell him. He wants to take the children away from her and she thinks she would die if he does. She can't eat now because of love and grief.

"Should I give the children up to him?" she asks, "or should I keep on loving him and then he might change his mind and learn to love me again."

No, don't give your children up, dear No one can take them from you if you are a good mother to them. Little children need their mothers.

Go to the domestic relations court or to the probate court and ask them to try to straighten the matter out. I can understand that your husband would be very angry if he felt you had told on him and made trouble for him, and it would be hard for him to think you had good intentions. But he won't stay mad forever—at least I hope not. People don't usually, especially young people.

Keep on loving him, dear. Love never harmed any one—real love. Do everything you can for him and try to win him back. Try not to cry and feel so badly when he comes to see the children That does no good, only if it relieves your full heart. Couldn't his mother or a very good friend intercede for you—try to make him see that he should not treat you so, and get him to come back home to live?

Going out with the boys and leaving his wife and children is no way for a married man to act. He still is responsible for your welfare and should act more like a man.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

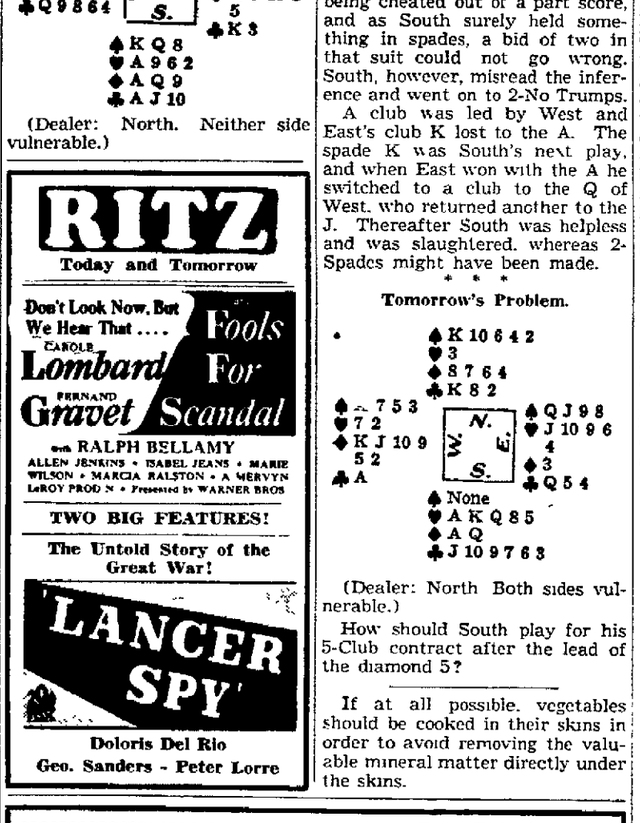
"The Authority on Authorities"

CLEAR AS A PICTURE

SUPPOSE YOUR pair is using the strong original no trump convention, and your perfectly sound call is passed by your partner. Suppose fourth hand kindly keeps it open with two of a minor and that is allowed to ride to your mate. Then suppose he bids two of a major and fourth hand passes it to you. Don't you know from this that your partner has nothing but a bit of length in his suit, with no honor strength? In other words, don't you know enough to pass and let him play the hand?

After passes by North and East, South started the bidding here with 1-No Trump North passed this and East put in a bid of 2-Diamonds. Having had no response from his partner, South feared making a further bid, so passed. North, however, figured that if his partner had a strong no trump hand they were perhaps being cheated out of a part score, and as South surely held something in spades, a bid of two in that suit could not go wrong. South, however, misread the inference and went on to 2-No Trumps.

A club was led by West and East's club K lost to the A. The spade K was South's next play, and when East won with the A he switched to a club to the Q of West, who returned another to the J. Thereafter South was helpless and was slaughtered, whereas 2-Spades might have been made.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North Both sides vulnerable.)

How should South play for his 5-Club contract after the lead of the diamond 5?

If at all possible, vegetables should be cooked in their skins in order to avoid removing the valuable mineral matter directly under the skins.

Swimming Can Be Fun, Good Exercise

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

THERE'S MORE to going to the beach than lolling on the sand! You can SWIM for beauty. This is an idea that has been expounded by experts, and it certainly appeals to this department. There is nothing that makes us happier than enjoying ourselves and still knowing it is good for us. Fun is so seldom healthful.

The sponsors of National Swim for Health week point with pride to prominent female swimming stars. These girls have certainly got everything—glowing complexions, graceful posture, and perfectly developed bodies. On the other hand, many famous women athletes who are tops at other sports do sometimes have over-developed, unfeminine muscles. In many cases girls who participate in other sports go in for aquatics just to keep their bodies symmetrical.

Since swimming will give you those longed for perfect proportions, there's no reason why it can't work whether you are thin or fat. It's a real boon to the underweight and the overweight. By exercising the abdominal muscles, you will drop those dreaded rolls of flesh around the waist. Flabby arms and legs will be transformed into lithe and shapely appendages, as smooth muscles replace the flesh that formerly marred your appearance.

To Develop Chest.

Naturally, if you are thin, you won't automatically put on weight by swimming. What will cause you to lose that emaciated look is the development of muscles which will give your arms and legs rounded contours. You can, however, produce some fat to fill in those neck hollows. Swimming calls for an equal distribution of flesh to resist the pull of the water, and nature answers this call as the swimmer's appetite improves and provides material to produce padding. Incidentally, many of these hollows disappear as you find your muscles are improved in tone and your posture corrected. Postural defects accentuate all your figure shortcomings, but when you are erect and poised, you appear to be perfectly proportioned even if you do have a few defects

If your chest measurements are too small, instead of swimming various strokes, concentrate on the breast and back strokes. These movements have a noticeable effect in developing flesh around the bust and strengthening sagging breast muscles.

The sport of water babies will make you have fine complexions and good health too. A clear complexion is a sign of a purified digestive and circulatory system. The use of the important muscles in this exercise creates a need for additional oxygen in various parts of the body In order to supply this oxygen, the rate of your blood circulation is increased. This increases respiration, and as the blood travels more frequently to all parts of your body it removes impurities. Your digestive action is improved as the internal organs begin to function properly.

Needless to say, this good clean fun will put you in top form for the evening's entertainment.

When broiling steak, slip several slices of bread under the rack on bottom of broiler pan. The juices drip down and when meat is done, the bread is toasted a delicate brown and forms a delicious accompaniment.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

A demon of perversity entered into me at Dicky's captious retort, "Of course I want an explanation. What do you think I'm waiting around here for?" He had made no attempt, I noticed, to possess himself of the clipped papers I had secreted between the drawings, and it was with the certainty of disconcerting him that, goaded by his ill temper, I swiftly lifted the top layer of drawings, snatched the clipped papers from the resting place and held them out to him.

"Perhaps for these papers, which, as you have accurately 'supposed,' Junior found among them, and brought to me, thinking you had mislaid them among the drawings."

He fairly snatched them from my hand, and at his first glimpse of them, I saw the color drain from his face. That he had mislaid them, and was not only surprised but chagrinned at finding he had left them among the drawings, was plainly to be seen.

"How much have you read of these?" he demanded hoarsely. "And how much did the boy see?"

Pities Dicky.

Through my anger ran a throb of pity for the fright which was his at Junior's possible reaction to the strange problem the figures on the pages presented. I hastened to assuage it before I took up my own defense.

"He saw 'only a lot of figures,' as he expressed it," I said, "and in boyish fashion thought they ought to be put where you could find them. I will warrant he has forgotten all about it by this time."

"That's the one consolation to be drawn out of the mess," he said in a relieved tone. Then he added sardonically:

"I suppose that's all you saw, too, a lot of figures," he said.

"No," I retorted coolly. "I saw more than that."

He started violently.

Temper Unleashed.

"I thought so," he said "You were spying on me, after all, despite your very voluble protestations."

My temper slipped its leash at last. I stepped a pace closer to him, and looked angrily into his eyes.

"I have listened to your insults long enough," I said stormily. "You need not believe me if you do not wish, but I am telling you now, on my word of honor, that I have not looked at anything in your room, save for the one involuntary glance I gave these papers when Junior brought them to me. You know my faculty of seeing things at a glance, the result of years of training, and that one glance showed me figures that astounded me. But I immediately put the paper aside, pretending to Junior that it was of no consequence, and when he had gone I debated with myself whether to leave the papers on top of your drawings or to replace them as they were. And I did not look at them again. You may believe it, and apologize to me for what you have said, I shall not speak to you again, except when other people are present, and then just enough to avoid any suspicion of a quarrel. And I take back my promise to be in the city next week. You surely do not need a spy to aid you anywhere."

Welcome Diversion.

I knew his stubborness under an attack of any sort, and was not surprised at his silence as I turned away and unlocked the door leading to the hall. He would give me the apology I had asked, I knew, as I also knew that he was convinced of the truth of my defense. But he would not speak immediately.

Sounds of running feet in the hall spelled a welcome diversion to both of us. Junior and Roderick were running neck and neck toward the door as I opened it, and the next instant had flashed past me and were embracing Dicky with their hard, young arms.

"I saw your car," Roderick panted, "and Katie said you had come upstairs. I was coming up by myself," he added with a conscious air of virtue, "but then I thought I ought to get hold of Junior, too. So I hunted him up and we both came over."

"Gee!" Junior exclaimed happily. "This makes everything complete. First, Mums, then you. Come on over here, Mums, where you belong. What are you hanging back for? This is the time we all have huggings together."

You Can Tell Exciting Fortunes for Friends.

Glamorous as the new moon itself—those gipsy card fortunes you tell your friends on lazy summer evenings.

To Jean's excited "What about the men in my life?" you reply—eyeing the Jack of Spades—"There's going to be some one new . . . dark and dashing!"

Face cards always represent people. Jacks stand for young men, Kings are a bit more mature and sophisticated. A Queen is a woman—a best girl friend or, perhaps, a rival. Red Face cards are blonds; black ones, brunets.

And the other cards in the deck? Each one has a special meaning. You point to the Three of Diamonds and say, "Guess what? Good news coming!"

Or maybe it's the Ace of Spades (a long journey), Two of Hearts (a proposal), Ten of Diamonds (a legacy).

There's bound to be something intriguing in every fortune. Our 32-page booklet tells how to read cards, tea leaves, horoscopes. Fortunes in the campfire.

THEATER

THIS and That: Arleen Whelan, who has her big role in "Kidnaped" with Warner Baxter, is considered the outstanding screen find of the year. At present she is working in "Ellis Island" with Don Ameche and Gladys George. . . . You may have to take an interpreter with you to understand "The Great Waltz" when it is released, the two stars, Luise Rainer and Fernard Gravet have an accent that isn't always understandable; Miliza Korjus, from Vienna, can say her English lines but she doesn't understand English, and Gottfried Reinhardt is from Germany. . . . Robert Taylor is taking a lot of punishment in making his role in "The Crowd Roars," a former Jim Cagney vehicle. He's being mauled by professional boxers. . . .

O'Brien Brings Action.

George O'Brien, whose screen performances are synonymous with action, has a complicated role in "Gun Law," opening at the Madison tomorrow for three days. He is a United States marshall who impersonates a bandit to get in with a gang of lawbreakers, and then impersonates the marshall to please the gang. "Gun Law" is a story of the old West, made into a picture by R-K-O, and deals with the time when a man's ability to ride and his fast work with the trigger determined the length of his life on the border. Arizona mountains and desert lands provides the locale. Rita Oehman, until recently a dancer at the Biltmore Bowl in Hollywood, and now launched on a movie career, plays opposite O'Brien.

Romance in New Orleans.

A gay romance in New Orleans gives Simone Simon a chance to again show her dimples and pout in "Josette," the Ohio theater attraction today and through Friday. It is a back stage romance of a wardrobe mistress who finally gets her "big chance" when the star of the cabaret goes on a jaunt to New York City with the wealthy papa of two very handsome and personable sons. The sons believing the little wardrobe mistress who is pinch hitting for the star to be the gold-digging star herself, have rather a stormy time of it before the happy climax. Bert Lahr, as the cabaret manager, and Joan Davis, recently voted No. 1 screen comedienne in a newspaper poll, provide the comedy. Tala Birell, a good actress who is infrequently seen on the screen, plays the real Josette.

* * *

Mystery Story.

English producers try their hand at mystery pictures in "The Girl Was Young," a Majestic feature, and whether or not they can sustain suspense and make as coherent picture drama as American producers depends upon the viewpoint of the audiences. In this picture the suspense is carried by a young man who is accused of murder when he is seen running away from the scene where a girl has been strangled with the belt from a rain coat. Evidence piles up when his rain coat is found and the belt is missing. It is difficult to guess the solution. A typical Will Rogers cast is seen in the late comedian's picture "Life Begins at 40," the second feature, for it has Slim Summerville, Jane Darwell, Rochelle Hudson and Richard Crowwell.

* * *

Ticklish Situation.

If he lived, a daring British secret agent sitting in high German command and wearing a Prussian officer's uniform, would be in a position to strike a killing blow to the enemy of his country, but if he failed it meant the firing squad for him. And a beautiful woman spy was in love with him. This situation holds attention in "Lancer Spy," a story of international spies and espionage which has George Sanders, Dolores Del Rio and Peter Lorre in the leading roles. Sanders appears with the Prussian haircut which once distinguished Eric von Stroheim. A romantic comedy of an American movie star who hires a count for a butler is a vehicle for the talents of Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet, and is the second feature at the Ritz.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 9.

JUDGING BY the ruling force of certain mutual aspects for this day, there may be perplexing conditions where stratagem, intrigue or collusion may be effective in untangling menacing situations. Compromise and subtlety may succeed where direct action might fail.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of rather problematical conditions, with curious or undercover matters holding menace unless tact, diplomacy, vigilance and corresponding stratagem are exercised. Connivance and intrigue may be required for success and to avert rather vicious situations born of duplicity, enmity and jealousy.

GIANTS SAID TO HAVE KICKED IN WITH $20,000 FOR KAMPY.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—They say the Giants really kicked in with $20,000 cash and Wally Berger to get Alex Kampouris from the Reds . . . Experts Believe Pitcher's Act May Cause Team Dissension, Ruin Pennant Hopes.

BOSTON—(UP)—The flare of tempers which caused the New York Yankees to trade him, today had made Johnny Allen an "outcast" in the ranks of the league leading Cleveland Indians.

Allen, winner of seven consecutive games since he was beaten on opening day, walked off the field in the second inning of a game here yesterday with the Boston Red Sox after an argument with Umpire Bill McGowan.

After Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox had protested that the sweat-shirt Allen was wearing was illegal because it had holes cut in the sleeve just below the elbow, McGowan ordered the hurler to change it. Allen refused and walked into the clubhouse.

Fined $250.

Lyn Lary, the Indians' field captain, and Manager Oscar Vitt followed the temperamental hurler and pleaded with him to heed the umpire's order. Allen refused. Vitt then ordered the change made and when the pitcher refused he was fined $250.

John Allen

Allen later was reported to have had a change of heart and agreed to return to the mound, but Vitt refused to back down.

Vitt, who supported his fiery pitcher in a dispute with McGowan in St. Louis soon after the start of the season, said the umpire was perfectly correct in ordering the shirt changed.

"There's no doubt that McGowan is right in ordering you to change," Vitt told Allen. "After all the shirt is slit in violation of league rules."

"I wore the same shirt all last season and so far this year and I'm not going to change," Allen replied. Vitt then levied the fine.

Allen has been a target for rival American league players for years and they repeatedly attempt to get his "goat" by charging him with illegal deliveries and tampering with the ball.

Habitual Wrangler.

The Indian hurler has disputed ball and strike decisions of every umpire in the league and it is admitted throughout the circuit that he is never given the benefit of any doubt.

Vitt declined to suspend Allen after his insubordination yesterday, but baseball experts conjectured what effect the episode will have on the club's pennant hopes. If Allen sulks over his fine or the act creates dissension among teammates when he is in the box, observers agreed Cleveland's chances of taking the flag would suffer a great setback.

Humphries Does Superb Hill Job.

BOSTON—(UP)—A 23-year-old rookie right-hander, Johnny Humphries, today popped out of the dark recesses of the Cleveland bullpen to make a bid for a regular starting berth and simultaneously strengthen the Tribe's hopes for the American league pennant.

Humphries, who won 20 games while losing seven for New Orleans a year ago, came through with a superb job of relief pitching here yesterday to enable Cleveland to defeat the Boston Red Sox 7-5. The victory, coupled with a loss by New York, increased the Indians' league lead to four full games.

Follows Zuber.

After Johnny Allen, burly right-hander, had given up two runs in the first inning and then refused to go back to the mound in the second round following an argument with Umpire Bill McGowan over a slit in the arm of his sweat-shirt, the Red Sox got to young Bill Zuber for three runs and knocked him from the box in the third inning.

With only one man out in the third, Humphries was sent in and he did not grant a hit in the remaining 6⅔ innings. Boston got only one man to first base off the rangy youth, that the result of a pass.

Cleveland got to Jim Bagby for two runs in the first inning and then added single counters in the second third and fourth to knot the count.

The teams remained deadlocked then until the ninth when the Indians again demonstrated their championship caliber by coming through with two runs to grab the decision.

Hale Wins Game.

The winning rally was started when Lyn Lary singled and advanced on Bruce Campbell's sacrifice. A double by Sammy Hale plated Lary and then the Indian second sacker came home on a ringing triple by Earl Averill.

Lary with three hits and Hale and Averill with two each topped the Cleveland attack.

The clubs were to meet here again today with Bob Feller opposing the Red Sox veteran star, "Lefty" Grove.

EX-OHIO STATE LEAGUE UMPIRE GOES TO A. A.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The appointment of William J. Slavin of Toledo who worked in the Ohio State league two years ago to the American Association umpiring staff was announced today by President George M. Trautman. Slavin has been working this season in the Mid-Atlantic League. He replaces Stephen J. Colfer who resigned.

APPLING JOINS CHISOX, READY IN TWO WEEKS

Fire Final Practice Shots in Warm-up for U. S. Open at Cherry Hills Today.

By RUSS NEWLAND.

DENVER, Colo.—(AP)—America's finest professional golfers, plus a sprinkling of fairly solid contenders from the amateur ranks, fired final practice shots today in the warm-up for the 1938 National Open championship.

The big show gets underway tomorrow. On the basis of practice spins and form-charts, it shaped up as a wide open scramble, with the seasoned campaigners apparently holding no great advantages over a contingent of lesser lights from all sections of the country.

Harder Than It Looks.

Fairways of the Cherry Hills course were a patchwork of divots which only bore mute testimony to the fact the par 35-36-71 layout is considerably tougher than it looks on the surface.

Its 6,826 yards spread out over narrow fairways, fringed by some ball-snaring water hazards, and terminating in postage-stamp-size greens.

Sub-par and even par performances for a full round have been lacking during the pre-tournament play. Striking illustrations were yesterday's practice rounds in cold and rainy weather. Only Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., had a par-equalling effort for 18 holes. It's the consensus of railbirds that 285 won't be broken for 72 holes.

However, most of the entrants obviously were not bearing down. Some played two balls on every shot. Others hit three or four shots from one spot.

Best Round to Date.

The 68 produced by Sam Snead a few days ago remained as the best practice round so far. Since then the West Virginia swatsmith has had his troubles. He took an approximate 78 yesterday.

Redlegs to Use Catcher at Second

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds prepared for the second game under lights of the season tonight, facing the last-place Phillies. Either Gene Schott of Paul Derringer was scheduled to hurl against Wayne Lemaster and the Reds were out to crowd third place.

Bill McKechnie indicated that Wally Berger, new slugging outfielder obtained in a trade with the Giants for Alex Kampouris, would be used as a pinch hitter for the present. Willard Hershberger may be out at second base filling Kampy's position. Lonnie Frey still is suffering from a strained muscle in his side.

Fullager Stops Crestline, 5 to 1

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—In a surprising upset, Baby Arizmendi, veteran Mexican lightweight, held Champion Lou Ambers to a ten-round draw here last night. It was a non-title bout.

Amber's cutting blows however, had taken a bloody toll on Arizmendi, and when he walked from the ring, his mouth, nose and right eye were bleeding freely.

Hold Boosters Day For Legion Sunday

Legionnaires Stage Sale to Pack Stands for Tilt With Lancaster Club.

IN AN attempt to raise funds to continue the operation of a team in the strong Central Ohio semi-pro league, the American Legion will stage a Boosters' Day at the Fairground Sunday when the Legionnaires meet Lancaster.

Despite the fine caliber of ball that is being presented in the circuit, the crowds for the home games have been discouraging, and the special day has been arranged to make it possible to retain representation in the circuit.

Stage Campaign.

Tickets are now being sold in a city-wide campaign at 40 cents in the effort to pack the stands Sunday for the Lancaster melee.

Manager Dewey Durant also expects to show a number of new ball players in the lineup of the Legion team Sunday when it attempts to raise its percentage to .500.

Poor work in the field was responsible for most of the embarrassment suffered by the Legionnaires in their game with New Philadelphia, and Durant hopes to strengthen the team before Sunday.

Although virtually everything went wrong out there at the Fairground Sunday, Durant received some consolation from the pitching served plateward by Donald Durant a young right hander from Tiro.

Dudley, who had a tryout with one of the St. Louis Cardinal clubs, was on the mound two innings, and showed up exceedingly well.

Likes Kid's Style.

He gave up two runs during his tenure on the mound, but Durant is impressed with the youngster's style, and believes he will produce for the Legionnaires.

Dudley is a welcome addition to the staff as Howard Patterson is temperarily on the sidelines with a sore arm.

Diz Finds 'Easiest Job In the World'

CHICAGO—(UP)—Dizzy Dean pitched three balls out in the Chicago Cubs' bull pen and sat down. Four innings later he pitched six more and sat down again.

"Ain't that Charlie Grimm a pistol?" he grunted. "Maybe he thinks I need more rest so he says Diz you be relief pitcher for Bill Lee. That's the easiest job in the world." Lee went on to win his sixth straight victory, 4 to 2.

Schmeling's Confidence Is Contagious

Tunney Believes German Has Reached Peak at 32.

SPECULATOR, N. Y.—(AP)—It is difficult to stay in this pleasant spot for a day and not break out in a rash of predictions about what Max Schmeling will do to Joe Louis two weeks from tonight in the Yankee stadium.

The German's quiet confidence is so contagious, he is so dead certain he will stop the colored champion again, that you begin wondering why all those people are buying $30 tickets to watch it happen.

The man who intends to make ring history by regaining the heavyweight title is, as usual, in superb condition. Gene Tunney, a visitor to the camp yesterday, said he thought Max probably had at 32 reached his life's peak of skill and physical fitness.

Schmeling attributes his improvement in the last three years almost entirely to road work. Through the years that he was winning the championship and losing it, he never did a lick of road work. He hated running of any sort, but now he loves it.

Braddock Says Joe'll Be Ready.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(AP)—Ex-champion James J. Braddock, who can speak with considerable authority on the subject, doesn't think Joe Louis' sudden loss of form will have any serious effect on his heavyweight title bout with Max Schmeling at the Yankee stadium, June 22.

Braddock, from whom Joe won the title, saw Louis put on a listless exhibition in six rounds of sparring yesterday. The champion was pounded and roughed up by two of his sparmates. But Braddock merely commented:

"You'll see a different fighter by this time next week. He's not burning up any unnecessary energy, and when he gets ready he'll open up. He worked the same way for our fight, but there's no denying he had everything when the bell rang."

Cubs Stretch Lead as Lee Stops Giants

Triumph Sixth Straight for Chicago Hurler.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Superior pitching today enabled the Chicago Cubs to stretch their National league lead to one and one-half games.

"Big Bill" Lee, currently the outstanding hurlers in the majors, came through with another brilliant exhibition yesterday to give the Cubs a 4 to 2 decision over the sliding New York Giants.

Ott Breaks String.

Lee stretched his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 35 before Mel Ott hammered out a home run in the fourth inning. Another circuit drive in the ninth by Jimmy Ripple gave the Giants their other run.

The triumph was the sixth in a row for Lee. In the last 56 innings he has pitched he has granted a total of only three runs.

While Lee was doing his bit in the box his teammates came through with a seventh inning rally to break a 1 to 1 tie as they scored three times.

A home run by Billy Herman, and another by Joe Marty with one man on gave the Cubs the triumph.

Lee gave the Giants only seven hits, while his mates touched Cliff Melton and Dick Coffman for 11.

The Giants faced a real crisis as the met the Cubs in a doubleheader today. Unless they can win at least one of the contests, their flag chances appeared slight. Carl Hubbell and Harry Gumbert were slated to be the starting New York hurlers, with Larry French and Clay Bryant working for the Cubs.

In the only other National league game, the Brooklyn Dodgers bested the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 6. A fine bit of relief hurling by Vito Tamulis gave the Dodgers their third straight triumph.

Another Lee Wins.

Thornton Lee, long a jinx of the New York Yankees, beat the world champions again yesterday when his Chicago White Sox mates hammered out an 8 to 5 victory.

In the other American league games Cleveland defeated Boston 7 to 5; Detroit edged Philadelphia 5 to 4, and St. Louis trounced Washington 11 to 8.

GEE, HE'S FUNNY-LOOKING--AND WITH THAT GARB HE'D GET A LAUGH AT A FUNERAL
JUDGE MIBLICK, I WANT YOU TO MEET MY BROTHER, STEVE

AND DALLIS WAS CONCERNED OVER PAUL!
SHE'S WONDERFUL! CRAZIER ABOUT HER EVERY DAY!-BUT I'M NOT EVEN GETTING TO FIRST BASE-I CAN SEE THAT MUST BE PENFIELD-SEE HIM WITH HER A LOT-BIG ADVANTAGE, BEING IN THE SAME OFFICE
BUT PAM'S THOUGHTS THOSE DAYS FREQUENTLY DRIFTED INTO FAR DIFFERENT CHANNELS
IN ABOUT TEN DAYS WILL COME THE BIG TEST--DAVID WILL TRY TO WALK AGAIN-OH, HE'S SO HOPEFUL--BUT HE'S BRAVE, TOO--HE'LL TAKE HIS FATE, IF IT BE BAD, WITHOUT A WHIMPER!-BUT I PRAY IT'LL BE GOOD!

PRICES MOVE AIMLESSLY IN NARROW RANGE

Dealings Slow as Traders Desert Market for Early Vacations.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Deserted by most traders, the stock market barely moved today and prices fluctuated aimlessly in a narrow range

Major commodities had a livelier spirit on the upside than stocks. Most bonds held to a narrow path.

Many traders withdrew from dealings to take early summer vacations, expecting a continuation of the recent drift until Autumn business prospects could be judged more clearly

Trade indicators continued to point toward summer industrial slack, emphasized by curtailment plans in key industries, producing raw materials, in order to bolster prices.

Reporting steel business continues to decline, the 'Iron Age" said.

"Whatever activity there is during the summer will probably emanate largely from government spending and lending The automobile industry is not likely to make any important purchases before August, when preparations for 1939 models will be fully under way."

The Edison Electric Institute reported power output last week was 11 8 per cent off from the comparable 1937 figure against a year-to-year loss of 10 6 per cent the preceding week.

TELLS BUCYRUS GRADS OF FOUR DUTIES IN LIFE

Ashtabula Harbor School Head Gives Address at Annual Commencement.

BUCYRUS—Four responsibilities of life were pointed out by Superintendent W. E. Wenner of the Ashland Harbor schools in his address before members of the Bucyrus high school graduating class at the commencement exercises Tuesday night in the high school auditorium.

"Have a philosophy in life, seek to produce or carry some good," he told the graduates in outlining the four supreme responsibilities, which he outlined as, first, preserve our public institutions; second, establish brotherhood through the elimination of war; third, attempt to reconcile socialistic ideas with those of individualism, and fourth, spiritualization of all efforts.

8 Classes Honored.

For the first time in the history of Bucyrus high school, members of three classes were assembled on the stage and received recognition. Three members of the class of fifty years ago and their principal, Mrs. R. V. Sears, were presented with diplomas by Supt. D. C. Baer. Of the class of 13 members, nine are still living. A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

WHEN first June roses bloom and sweet clover plants show their spikes of white and yellow along the road, and daisies dot the hills and meadows with heads of white and gold—it's strawberry time

Long years ago this fruit was not a garden treasure. It first grew wild, along the borders of our arid, western deserts—very sweet and of splendid flavor, but so small that it was not interesting to harvest.

A traveler who had roamed about the hills and plains of South America, chanced upon a fruiting strawberry plant. The berry grew upon a heavy stem, a fine, red mass of tempting color. He tasted it, and in disgust and disappointment threw it on the ground Instead of something sweet and pleasant, he found an insipid, savage tasting morsel.

In sharp contrast, he remembered his little, blushing friend bordering our western deserts, and that night he devised a plan of shipping some of these strong, heavy-bearing plants north to the states The little, modest northern plant always bore a perfect flower—in the southern one the anthers only touched the rim of the vast yellow center In other words one was a lady the other a strong, heavy-bearded gentleman

Our friend brought this sample of the treasure north and there in the presence of shining sun and desert winds began a happy union from which sprang the luscious fruit of present day the treat that makes berry time a pleasant season to remember

As a lad, I would ask my mother to call me just at dawn, so that I might get to a neighbor's patch for an early start The grass was cold and wet, but it was pleasant to watch the sun come up, and feel the first warm rays touch the strawy bed between the rows I breakfasted upon the first and sweetest berries of my row, until I could hold no more

John Burroughs said 'God might have made a thing more beautiful than a strawberry—but he didn't."

SCIENTIST BUSY HUNTING ELIXIR OF YOUTH AT 93

Research Worker Blends Wine and Secret Powder for 'Eternal Youth.'

(By United Press Staff)

PARIS—Edouard Branly, illustrious inventor, whom the French credit with having perfected the first radio transmitting and receiving set, wants to discover the secret of eternal youth before he dies.

The aged scientist will be 94 this year, but says he desires to live just five more years to finish his studies. Other than the fewest of details he refuses to divulge exactly how he expects to arrive at the much sought for formula, but declares he is sure he will live to be over 100 if he is successful.

Found at work in his laboratory where he still keeps regular hours as he did 60 years ago, Branly said:

"You see, I am in excellent health. It is because I have a secret." And when asked if it was the secret of youth, half ironically and half amusedly he replied: "Without doubt."

Yellow Powder Concocted.

He then pointed to a container filled with a yellow powder. He took a small pinch and put it on the tip of his tongue. He then followed the same procedure with another pinch.

"That," he said when he had finished, "is my secret, that powder. But I can't tell you its name. First, in order to obtain it, it is necessary to be a doctor, for there are men who have taken it and died from the results.

"You understand," he continued, "it is necessary to know how and when to use it. For myself I find it admirable. And after that I have my Saint-Emilion."

When asked what the latter was, he said it was another secret, but that he could give more details concerning that.

"Saint-Emilion," he explained, "is the king of wines, which is enriched by voyage. Barrels of it were once sent to Palestine by boat, but it was returned to Bordeaux by the same conveyance. It thus obtained a mellowness, a warmth and bouquet incomparable to its original state. It is not a table wine, but with my powder and several sips of the wine between meals I am sure of prolonging my life."

And there he refused to give any more information concerning either the powder or the wine except that they both must be taken in the correct amounts and at the proper time.

The scientist admits, however, he attributes his age to a great extent to having lived a sane and rigorously regulated life. He is a great believer in vegetables and fruits and has kept the most regular hours for the last 15 years.

Coshocton Mechanic Opposes Ashbrook in Congress Race.

A fourth candidate entered the race today for the 17th district congressional post held by William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, with the filing of a nominating petition by Lee H. Purdy, Democrat, of Coshocton county.

Purdy's entry produces a contest in both the Democratic and Republican primaries since Ashbrook already has filed, and Oliver H. Dockery, Newark, and Philip Wolfe, Mansfield, are in the race on the Republican ticket. Wolfe is the only one of the four who has not filed to date.

Purdy, a middle-aged mechanic from Warsaw, near Coshocton, is a newcomer in politics. He has never held a public office, and said he will run on a platform of "administrative government free of corruption."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

ROTARY HEARS ABOUT MEXICO

Westinghouse Representative Explains Nation's Attitude.

Donald S. Strophlet of the merchandising division of Westinghouse, spoke on Mexico at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The historical background of Mexico, together with an outline of the present political situation and an explanation of the attitude of that country toward the United States, provided the basis for the address.

Attractions of Mexican travel, with increase in facilities for motoring to many places of interest, also were mentioned.

Fred Tracy was program chairman for the meeting at which W. L. Miller presided.

Autoist Loses License For Year For Reckless Driving.

Genard Foster, R. D. 3, Sullivan, arraigned in municipal court yesterday on charges of careless and reckless driving had his operator's permit revoked for one year and paid a fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty.

Foster was arrested by state highway patrolman C. B. Tieben at 1 a. m. Tuesday on U. S. route 42 at Windsor following a collision with a truck. The officer testified that Foster had attempted to pass another car and had collided with a truck owned by the Commercial Motor Freight company.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Colorado Museum Adds Dangerous Lizard Specimens

DENVER—(INS)—Two interesting but ugly and dangerous specimens of lizard were recently added to the collection in the Colorado Museum of Natural History.

They were Gila monsters, from the mountains of southern Arizona.

With the exception of one other species found in the same region, Alfred M. Bailey, director of the museum said, they are the only poisonous lizards.

"Their venom is similar in effects to some types of snake poison," Bailey said. "The biting apparatus differs from that of snakes, however, as the fangs are in the lower jaw instead of the upper, and there are 16 of them.

"These lizards are pugnacious and irritable, and when a wild specimen is approached suddenly, it usually opens its mouth and hisses audibly.

"It bites with a jerky motion, and hangs on with a bulldog grip, chewing savagely in order to imbed its teeth as deeply as possible."

The Gila monster, Bailey said, was undoubtedly the ugliest living creature.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1938.

With every passing day the joke on Maine and Vermont seems less funny.

The way taxpayers have been kicked around, a sit-down strike would be very uncomfortable.

It was Robert Quillen who thought to say: "The crowning idiocy of idealism is that a free land is obligated to harbor foreigners who try to injure it."

Gillette Victory Reveals Trend.

DEFEAT of administration-supported Otha D. Wearin in Monday's senatorial primary election in Iowa can scarcely be explained as other than a direct slap at Roosevelt policies.

Nomination of present Senator Guy M. Gillette, by a wide margin, followed a "blessing" on the Wearin candidacy by such recognized spokesmen for the administration as WPA Chief Harry L. Hopkins and James Roosevelt, son of the president.

Senator Gillette, who had antagonized the administration by his commendable opposition to the Supreme Court reorganization proposal, asserted his loyalty to the president but reserved the right to oppose New Deal policies he regarded as unwise.

For this refusal to be a "rubber stamp" senator he was among those chosen for annihilation by the Roosevelt forces, which apparently assumed that only a word was needed to assure defeat of any Democrat senator or congressman who declined to sacrifice judgment to political expediency.

The outcome of the Iowa primary is heartening to those who feel that frank expression of honest opinions is commendable in congress and that opposition to Roosevelt policies is an insufficient reason to defeat an otherwise acceptable candidate.

With 33,500 WPA project workers on the payrolls in Iowa, and with the Hopkins appeal that all of these votes should go to Wearin, it is interesting to note that the Wearin total did not greatly exceed that number—which will strengthen belief that dependence is being placed in relief beneficiaries to serve as the balance of power in choosing officials and determining governmental policies.

Why the Community Fund Is Short.

THERE is still a shortage of approximately $6,000 in subscriptions to the Community Fund.

Unless this shortage is made up, and the goal of $53,950 reached by the end of the week, prosperous Mansfield will be in the unenviable position of being the only city of its size in the state of Ohio to undersubscribe its Community Chest quota.

The Industrial division is the only one, thus far in the campaign, to have oversubscribed its quota, carrying responsibility for MORE THAN ONE HALF of the entire amount required.

Some of the other divisions have made creditable showings—based on ability to give—OTHERS HAVE NOT.

Experiences of canvassers, who have given time and effort to this campaign in addition to individual contributions, presents convincing evidence that SOME WELL-TO-DO PEOPLE IN MANSFIELD DO NOT RECOGNIZE ANY COMMUNITY OBLIGATION TO SUPPORT THE COMMUNITY CHEST.

In some instances of record, persons drawing good salaries or conducting profitable businesses or engaged in lucrative professions have felt that a grudgingly contributed dollar, or two, or three was all that should be expected of them.

But to the credit of Mansfield, it should also be said that many others have contributed amounts commensurate with their means—and, in some instances, in excess of what might be expected.

Mansfield is a city of reasonably well-distributed wealth—there are comparatively few here who are extremely rich and few who are destitute. In the main, Mansfield is made up of home-owning citizens in comfortable circumstances, who are able to not only provide for themselves and their dependents but also to give financial support to essential community activities, such as participate in the Community Fund.

It should be generally understood, however, that the present shortage in the Community Fund total is NOT caused by failure of small-income groups to give their share BUT BY THE FAILURE OF A SMALL GROUP OF UNWILLING GIVERS TO SUBSCRIBE IN PROPORTION TO THEIR ABILITY!

Mansfield does many things in a creditable way. But there are obviously some people in this city who have not learned how to give in a manner that benefits themselves as well as the community in which they live, and upon which they are dependent for their livelihood.

Mansfield cannot progress—in fact it cannot "hold its own"—without continuance of the work of the agencies partially supported by the Community Fund.

If the necessary money cannot be provided by ONE CAMPAIGN, as has been done since the Community Chest plan was adopted a number of years ago—THEN IT WILL BE NECESSARY FOR EACH OF THE AGENCIES TO REVERT TO THE METHOD OF CONDUCTING ITS OWN MONEY-RAISING CAMPAIGN.

Those who can remember the dissatisfaction that resulted from having eight or ten fund campaigns each year will be especially anxious to have the Community Fund plan continued.

Additional subscriptions to the extent of about $6,000 are the urgent need of the remaining days of this week.

No Concession to Fascism.

THOMAS MANN, exiled German author, seems to be regarded by general consent as the world leader of liberalism and humanism. What he thinks and says is therefore important to Americans, who today stand as the strongest representatives of this way of life.

He maintains that democracy must make no concessions whatever to Fascism: that if frightened capitalism does so, in time it will be crushed.

The experience of Italy and Germany seems to prove him right. Both have been changing more and more to a rigid regime of state socialism, which destroys economic and personal freedom along with political freedom.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

THIS depression is good for plant managements (if they survive the nervous shocks of sudden stops and sudden starts), according to the monthly business review of a large New York bank. The managements become more efficient, cut out more waste, and have a sounder operating machine.

True, says a plant manager friend of ours. True, but——

We are changing back from mass production to the production of many small articles—to go along with the big—in order to promote sales. Think of the gadgets that go with the modern automobile! Or anything else you can name.

Our plant manager friend believes more and more time-saving machines will have to be invented and installed, machines that can change speedily from this to that, and turn out material to the minuteness of the finest hair.

He believes that we now are in a phase of transformation, that machine shops, plants of all sorts, and men themselves will have to accommodate themselves to speedy production of new small things to make up the great whole.

Thus, when we come out of this depression, we shall be emerging with a new system of production as well as new socio-economic points of view.

And we shall find ourselves with a shortage of capable executives and suitably trained mechanics.

* * *

AN EVOLUTION.

Actually, says our plant manager friend, we are undergoing a more profound evolution in manufacturing and sales—the foundation of our business life—than in social and economic life. Here, grim necessity is forcing us to change, and radically, with no legislation except the hard law of immutable economics.

Men not fortunate enough to be in the midst of this evolution, being driven on with it, will find the plant, and even the business world, a changed one when they return.

And men who will not move on with change, will be crushed.

* * *

A GREAT ERA.

Although the strain be great, it is an era of hope, our plant manager friend asserts.

Those of us fortunate enough to be caught up in this huge, relentless wheel of change—within the plant, or the organization—will have learned, when the wheel finally has turned us to the top out of the pit, that we are being raised to a new strata of life. We shall learn to guide this change better, for we shall have gone up, up, up with every move of this monster wheel, jerked and shaken but hanging on. And eventually we shall know how to control it, as men now control the speediest auto, the highest airplane.

Then, we who have been so fortunate, will have to train other men. There even is hope for the older men, for calm, thoughtful heads are needed.

* * *

MORE MEN!

Our plant manager friend sees the need of more men, not fewer.

There are too few good executives, too few good mechanics now, he believes. It is true that splendid men walk the streets, discouraged. But he thinks they will be absorbed within a year or two, if their minds have remained resilient.

Truly great minds will be needed to master the machines, to cause them to serve us. And—our plant manager friend adds—when the machines really are forced to serve the population as a whole, we shall have an era of the widest prosperity yet seen by man.

This may be true. The world has gone forward in its greatest strides immediately after the darkest periods. Perhaps we are cast into the pits of hell to purge us—and to temper our minds to higher creative power and sterner resolution.

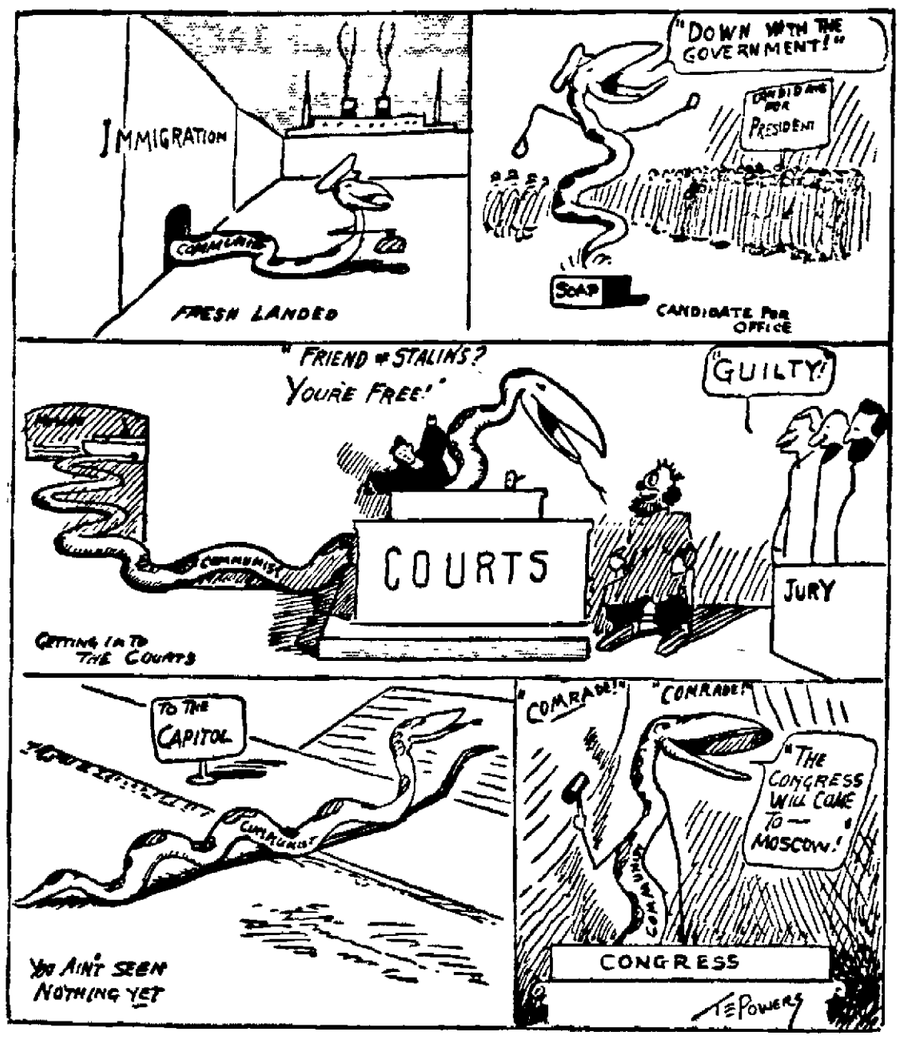
THE RED BORER



Modern Geese and Golden Eggs

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON — The significant story behind the new federal tax law going on the statute books this month might well be a tale about the geese and the golden eggs—but it's not the same one you heard in kindergarten.

The new fable is just as simple as the old, with a few scientific twists, and a mystery finish.

In the first place, modern government has known for a long, long time that more than one kind of goose can lay a golden egg, and that geese come fat and lean, just like other fowls. Likewise, it has long since discovered a most important scientific truth about geese—namely, that killing them won't increase the egg production.

So, instead of killing the geese that lay golden eggs—and also vote — modern government has busied itself selling them a bill of goods. There are two items in the bill:

1 More golden tax dollars produce greater comfort and safety for everybody when government spends them for the general welfare; and,

2 The fatter geese are more able, and therefore ought to produce the biggest and best eggs. (This is the theory accepted by all political parties—that the tax system should be based on the ability of the citizens to pay.)

* * *

Services for Sale.

THE American government started out early to sell the first item in the bill. The federal system began by levying taxes (stamps) to carry the mails. More services came as time went on. There were educational grants for citizens at large, new departments of government, federal highways, and so on. Take the departments of Commerce and Labor. One promotes the interests of business men and corporations, the other the welfare of the laboring population.

As the nation grew, the need for services apparently increased. The services cost money. Naturally, congress, i. e., government, set out to get more tax eggs from the geese. So it was that government began to sell item No. 2 in that bill of goods—namely, the fattest geese ought to pay the most. The idea was sound enough, so under the income tax law passed in 1913 citizens who made more money than their neighbors had to pay more to keep the federal government going.

Came the World war and its burdens. More and more taxes were added, with emphasis on big incomes of citizens and corporations. By 1920, over two-thirds of federal tax money came from income taxes and excess profits taxes.

Just about that time the fattest geese began to get wiser. They cut down on their egg production and offered perfectly legal excuses to the government for doing so. But they remained pretty fat.

* * *

Tit For Tat.

IN THE late twenties, the government also got pretty sly. It invented new theories, such as the income surtax system—a tax on top of a tax—to get at the fat fowls, such as wealthy citizens and still wealthier corporations.

Personal incomes over $5,000, for instance, paid a surtax rate, higher than the "normal" rate. Corporation income taxes were made progressively higher as profits increased.

Corporations and wealthier individuals, in turn, retaliated with sly—yet perfectly legal—tricks of their own. People invented "personal holding companies" and took credit for their "losses" on yachts, racing stables, and the like. Corporations held up their dividends and laid them by in the form of surpluses, which were not taxable.

Meanwhile the demand for government services increased. In 1933 a big new item appeared on the federal budget called "recovery and relief." It was a service to the unemployed, and for business recovery. It cost billions. Government went deeply into debt to pay for these new services to its citizens.

In 1936, came the "undistributed profits tax" and an upward revision of the "capital gains tax," new devices to get more golden eggs from the corporations and individuals that had found ways to avoid some of the previous taxes.

* * *

Scared Or Holding Out?

THAT brings us up to the new depression in 1937 and the new tax bill of 1938.

All along, since 1920, the fatter geese had been asserting they were laying more than their share of the golden eggs.

Immediately, the argument was on. Were the fat geese merely holding out, or were they really unable to produce more tax dollars

Roosevelt administration leaders said the fat ones were on a strike and had quit laying to make the government look bad. Others took the stand that the wealthy citizens and corporations were really scared—so scared they could neither get business going nor produce more tax dollars.

Congress accepted the theory that the government had been too hard on the fat geese. It reduced the undistributed profits tax to a mere shadow of its 1936 self, and modified the capital gains tax.

President Roosevelt, on the other hand, argues that Congress is merely providing corporations and wealthy individuals with a possible loophole to avoid their share of the tax load.

So the modern fable of the geese and the golden eggs ends in a question:

Are the geese that lay the golden eggs on strike, or are they scared stiff?

It will take a year of collecting golden eggs to provide the clews.

Health Advice

Treatment of Ills Without Medicine.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

In response to many inquiries, I shall undertake to explain the meaning and uses of "physiotherapy."

It is that form of treatment which depends for its success upon such natural forces as light, fresh air, heat, water, exercise and massage. This is not a new form of treatment by any means; it has been known for centuries. Indeed, Hippocrates, the "father of scientific medicine," based his practice upon nature and used physiotherapy in many forms.

Perhaps the oldest form of physiotherapy is the use of sunlight as a means of cure. The ancients worshiped the sun and learned that exposure to its rays helped to cure many afflictions. But it remained for modern scientists to discover that the beneficial action of the sun is due to the radiation of ultra-violet light.

Today, due to the inventive genius of man, when the sun rays are not available or are deficient in strength, as in the winter months, the light of powerful lamps is substituted. By the use of the "sun lamps," adequate amounts of the ultra-violet rays are made available.

Many Advantages.

There are many advantages to be had from this treatment. But it should not be undertaken except on the advice of a physician. Sometimes, unfortunately, this form of treatment may cause discomfort and actual harm. Properly used, it is extremely beneficial.

The ancients were familiar with that form of physiotherapy known as "hydrotherapy." In this treatment hot and cold water is used. The baths, sprays, or douches are so employed as to produce helpful effects within the body and aid in the cure of certain disturbances. Here, too, the treatment should be given only under medical supervision.

Certain forms of psysioteraphy have been of great value in overcoming the disabling effects of infantile paralysis. Some cases of high blood pressure, constipation, obesity, rheumatic and neuralgic conditions, and many digestive disorders have responded to certain forms of physiotherapy.

Unfortunately, too, many concerns have advertised to the lay public these various forms of treatment. For those not trained for this work, their use of these devices may result in serious damage.

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Let Bitter Hours Pass.

Do not recall the bitter hour
Again and yet again,
Live over weariness, invite
Its fret and hurt and pain.

Try to avoid it, take your thoughts
Away from it and try
To think of fairer times, the hours
Joy lifted you up high.

Some interest claimed that far removed
From this which gives you grief
Will take your mind from sorrow's tears;
Thus you can find relief.

Is It "Taps" for Chivalry?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IS CHIVALRY BEGINNING TO FOLD? HAS IT, IN FACT, TAKEN THE COUNT ENTIRELY?

Maybe you've heard rumors—angry snorts from Ladies because these Modern Men don't take off their hats in elevators . . . won't give up their seats in street cars . . . completely fail, in fact, to render the Gentler Sex proper homage . . .

And—if you're a male and value your health — you've probably kissed away the debate.

But here comes one outraged little sister — 16-year-old Dona Marie Melvin of Denver, Colo.—with a red hot argument. And just try 'n' laugh her off!

Says mad Miss Melvin—

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"I'm beginning to think that chivalry is really dead. It certainly seems so, judging by the actions of some of the boys around my home. Here are a few cases.

"The first occurred in our school cafeteria. The high school was late getting down to lunch. I reached for the last salmon sandwich. A senior boy reached for it also. As we each had one side of the plate, one of us had to give in. It was I! I suffered in silence and ate cheese, which I detest.

"The other incident occurred later. I was walking home with a boy four years younger than myself. Seeing something interesting nearby, he dropped his books on mine and said, 'Here, hold my books,' and off he dashed! Chivalry? Baloney!

"It won't be long now before the girls start spreading their coats across the gutters so the boys can keep their dainty feet out of the mud. Some day soon, we'll see a girl walk up to a boy and say, sweetly, 'May I carry your books?'

"Drop your pencil nowadays and you pick it up yourself, unless some rare male who still believes in that old-fashioned custom called courtesy, happens along.

"Maybe some of the fault lies with the female of the species. The girls want to be treated as equals of the boys in all things. Well, in my opinion they are getting a bigger dose of it than they expected.

"Some boys seem to think that only sissies are chivalrous, or that girls prefer the kind of boys that act as if they had never heard the word courteous. Maybe there are a few girls who do feel that way. But I'm positive the majority still like a few of the common courtesies that have become so rare.

"A boy can be a man and still be courteous. Why don't a few of our too, too perfect (so they think) boys get wise to themselves and act like gentlemen for a pleasant change?

"I hope I don't sound as if I had soured on the world because I make this protest. Regardless of manners, I still think that Young America is THE TOPS! But, oh, for a little old-fashioned CHIVALRY!"

Dona Marie Melvin—age 16,
Denver, Colo.

There's a plaint that will awake echoes in many a feminine heart, long since advanced from High School rank. And any female who does not instantly agree with it, practically commits harakiri. Yet, come what may, I'm about to do that very thing, for—

I DO NOT BELIEVE IN CHIVALRY.

I DO NOT SEE WHY ANY YOUNG MAN SHOULD PROFFER IT—

NOR WHY ANY MODERN GIRL SHOULD DESIRE IT.

AND, FROM CONSIDERABLE EVIDENCE, I'M CONVINCED THAT IT RAISES CAIN WITH ANY WOMAN WHO GETS IT.

At its best, Chivalry was never more than a lot of la-de-da gestures. At no time did it convey the respect, admiration or worship it was supposed to imply. If you wish to know how Ye Lads really felt about Ye Lassies, When-Knighthood-Was-In-Flower, do not quote the sonnets they wrote, nor the jousts they fought, nor the bows they scraped. Read, rather, the laws they wrote into their statute books — wherein ladies were placed on a par with the family cow and the village idiot.

'Tis true, girls, that they placed us on pedestals and gargled over our "lily white hands" in the days of Chivalry—but it is equally true that the same romantic gents reserved the right to "beat ye ladie wife with a stick no larger than ye male thumb" . . . or to will away her unborn babe . . . or indulge in other equally quaint practices.

THE TRUTH IS, CHIVALRY WAS A ROMANTIC COVER-UP FOR THE MOST UNFAIR, UNKIND AND ALL-'ROUND-INSULTING RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE SEXES WHICH THE RACE HAS EVER KNOWN. THEY MAY HAVE SAID IT WITH ROSES—BUT THE NET RESULT WAS A KICK ON THE EAR!

And why any free, white, two-fisted modern gal should wish to exchange her present freedom and opportunity for such hifalutin hooey and general meanness, beats me!

He "wont give up the last salmon sandwich"? Well, why should he? Do YOU give up your swimming record when you bet HIM at the beach? If you're able to outgrab him on sports, sisters, you should be equally game when he outgrabs you in eats!

And he "doesn't pick up your pencil"? Again I snort—for Petesake, what of it? You outwit him and outsmart him in jobs— and you'd slay anyone who said you were too weak to qualify — yet you blubber if he isn't a pencil picker! Be yourself, Dona!

There's no more reason why a man should raise his hat to a woman, or move her chair, or open her door, than why she should perform the same services for a man. We can't eat our Equality and have it both, Sisters! Either we're Regular Guys—or we're Busted Blossoms. But we can't be both. And we'd better make our minds which we'll be—QUICK!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—New York is used to championship fights but it has never learned to take them in stride. On the eve of an important scrap we become a city of restaurant sitters . . . Everybody goes to restaurants and sits there all through the evening, and talks . . . It's all fight talk . . . It was that way before the Armstrong-Ross fight . . . It will be worse than ever before the heavyweight battle between Schmeling and Louis.

Everybody goes to restaurants . . . You see them in threes and sixes and sevens . . . Newspapermen from every city in the nation, San Francisco, Denver, New Orleans . . . Fight managers and promoters from Miami, Chicago, Detroit . . . From Kansas City and Oakland and Fort Worth . . . You see Dempsey and Braddock and Tunney and Walker . . . Walker in his own restaurant, brown as a coffee bean, in a sport shirt open at the throat . . . Dempsey in his own restaurant, easy, jovial, well dressed . . . Braddock in his own restaurant, and Joe Gould, his manager . . . Gould, a little half-pint of a cherry fellow, and Braddock, a duel-scarred Irishman from the docks, who became champ. . . .

* * *

THEY say: "Louis is going to win this one," or "Max is going to give Louis a beating" . . . And they talk of the fight for a while and then slip into the endless reminiscences, the do-you-remember-ers that never end, and are fascinating to listen to, if you know anything about fighting . . . They tell all the old tales, the humorous ones and the sad ones . . . They go back to old Sam Langford, and to Battling Siki, the black Senegalese, who was knifed on the sidewalks of Hell's Kitchen, in the heart of a city that boasts of the most advanced civilization on earth.

It is a raucous, jovial, but restless crowd, with the gamblers getting down their money, or covering up at last minute with "hedgings" . . . Columnists and sports writers buttonhole this man and that man . . . They look, think, eat, talk, and breathe just one thing—Fight. They say: "Well, if those odds hold, I ought to make enough to buy a new car . . . If he knocks him out before the sixth, I win double . . . Who do you like? . . . I like Max . . . I like Joe . . . But Max is too old . . . But Joe has never got over that other beating . . . You don't shake off bad beatings like that one . . ."

So it goes and so it will ever go, in the restaurants of New York, on the night before a big fight.

* * *

THE detectives and the gamblers and the pugs and the mentors, and the Plain Guys who happen to be around and like to horn in on conversations, and perhaps go home and say: "Ma, I saw Dempsey" . . . The newspapermen and the cab drivers and the busy waiters and bar captains . . . All talk fight talk . . . They remember the Long Count in Chicago . . . They remember Harry Greb, who licked 'em all, even when he was half blind . . . They talk of a hot 4th of July in Toledo, O., back in 1919 . . . And Big Jess Willard . . . It goes on and on and never ends until it is time to pour into cabs and go to a tiny white platform in the night shadows of a great stadium.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Kith and Kin.

Once, a philosopher said:

"We have to accept our relatives: but we can choose our friends—thank the good Lord!"

Not so, however, in the phrase "kith and kin," which most of us, and with some measure of justification, consider an idiomatic lumping of kindred or relationships of all sorts, rich and poor, far and near, wanted or anathema.

Now, curiously, each of the components in the expression "kith and kin" has a separate, and if not distinctive, at least a somewhat different significance.

"Kith" comes from the Anglo-Saxon c(k)nawan to know, one of whose derivatives has the sense of "native land;""kith," therefore, connotes "acquaintance," "friend" or "compatriot."

"Kin," on the other hand, stems from the Anglo-Saxon c(k)ynn akin to c(k)ennan to beget, and so signifies a relationship, if not by birth, by marriage.

"Kith and kin," therefore, literally means "friends and relatives" with on reflection intended upon the latter.

FARMING FIRST IN EAST AFRICA, ITALY DECREES

Colonization Pushed Despite Sporadic Raids by Natives In Ethiopia.

(By United Press)

ROME — Despite the sporadic activity of Ethiopian brigands, who are still harassing settlement of colonists on the highlands, Italians are doggedly pursuing their big experiment of applying to Ethiopian agriculture the Fascist Corporative system.

The possibilities of white colonizaton on the highlands have focussed Italian efforts in the fields of agriculture and stock raising.

Determined to carry on the exploitation of Ethiopia with the same speed as the military campaign, Italian authorities are pushing the production of dura, coffee, cotton, tobacco, oil seeds, timber and sugar cane—all commodities normally imported by Italy. Special technical commissions have been created and careful projects have been elaborated in order to fulfill this ambition.

Three Classes Set Up.

Experts of the ministry for Italian Africa reveal that the agricultural colonization of the empire will be divided in classifications: first, white colonial farming; second, native farming; third, scientific farming.

The first class of farming will be applied in the regions suitable to white immigration where abundant water supply will permit adequate irrigation.

The second will occur in regions not suitable for white settlements and will be characterized by a land regime under which Italy intends to respect the interests of the natives.

The third class of agricultural colonization will be followed in regions requiring extensive cultivation and will be under the direct supervision of government bodies.

The government is busy purchasing huge blocks of territory for distribution among the future colonists. It particularly will favor small farms where white colonists may settle with their families. These "family centers"—as has been done in Lybia — will be assisted by special organizations which will make advances on future crops and dispose of the products.

When the settlers have demonstrated that they are fully able to fulfill their obligations, the government will turn over ownership of the plot to the farmers so that they may become permanent colonists.

SIX TAKEN ILL

Smallpox Cases Reported in Lexington and Bellville.

Discovery of six new cases of smallpox in Richland county, five in Lexington and the other in Bellville today brought forth a warning from Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, urging persons who have failed to be vaccinated against the disease to do so at once.

"Fortunately, the form of smallpox which has prevailed in Richland county is mostly of the mild, non-virulent type," Dr. Rehder said, "but we can never tell when the continued disregard of this mild form of the disease may lead to serious developments."

The cases reported in Lexington were Willard Prosser, 30, and his two daughters, Margaret, age 2, Laura, six months; Harry Prosser, 39, and Scott Garber, 60. The other case was Mrs. John Poorman, 28, Bellville. All are under quarantine, Dr. Rehder said.

The new smallpox cases are the first to be recorded since the serious outbreak which swept the county during March when more than 100 cases of the disease were reported.

Farm Prices Drop 30 Per Cent in Year, U. S. Reports.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Department of Agriculture has reported that prices of farm products have declined to the lowest point in four years.

A 30 per cent decline in market prices in the past year sent the bureau of agricultural economics index to 92 per cent of pre-war, compared with 128 per cent a year ago.

Although farm prices were near the 1909-1914 level, the department said, farm purchasing power was only 74 per cent of pre-war because prices paid by farmers for city products were 125 per cent of pre-war.

The largest price losses during the past year were in grains, cotton and fruits, the department said.

7 GRADUATE AT NURSING SCHOOL AS 250 LOOK ON

Rev. Braker and Dr. Wygant Speak at Exercises, Held in Baptist Church.

Commencement exercises for a class of seven graduates of the Mansfield General hospital school of nursing were held last night in the Park Avenue Baptist church. The exercises were attended by about 250 friends and relatives.

The addresses of the evening were given by Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, and Dr. W. E. Wygant, president of the hospital medical staff.

The class was presented for graduation by Miss Bernice M. Allen, educational director of the school, and Ross Glessner, president of the board of trustees, awarded the diplomas. The graduates were given their nurses' pins by Miss Mabel F. Selfe, director of nurses at the hospital. Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, presided during the exercises.

Musical Numbers

Special musical numbers were presented by Eugene Weinberger, violinist. He played four numbers, "Thais," "Schon Rosmarin," "Romance" from the "Violin Concerto," and "Hungarian Gypsy Air." Weinberger was accompanied by Mrs. Otilla Meyers.

The processional and recessional were played by Lawrence M. Frank, minister of music at the church, and Rev. Braker gave the invocation and benediction.

Following the exercises, a reception was held at the Nurses' home for the graduates and friends. About 100 attended the reception. A dinner-dance for the class will be held Thursday evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel by the alumni association. The junior class was host to the graduates at a dinner-dance held Monday evening at the Westbrook country club.

BAKERY PLANS NEW BUILDING

Architect At Work On Plans for $20,000 Structure.

Plans for a one-story office building and garage for the Alfred Nickles bakery in Mansfield were being prepared today by Harry Brumenshenkel, Mansfield architect.

The structure, which will be located at Grace and Lafayette streets, outside the city limits, will cost approximately $20,000 and will house the district offices of the company, a retail store and a fleet of trucks.

The building will be "L" shaped, 140 feet long by 60 feet at one end and 120 at the other. There will be a basement under part of it, Brumenshenkel said.

The Nickels company, which has its headquarters in Navarre, O., is expected to ask for bids on the new building within two weeks.

SISTER GONE, SO ARE CLOTHES

Woman Asks Police to Look for Missing Girl, 23.

Police today were asked to search for a 23-year-old girl who was reported to have "run off" with a man and her sister's clothing while both were visiting friends on North Main street.

Mrs. E. H Chinn, of Ironton, told police that she returned to the home of G. Boubay, 286 North Main street, at 11:30 p. m. yesterday to find that her sister, Betty Schaffer, who had accompanied her here, had gone away with a suitcase of her dresses valued at $25

Police said they learned that the Schaffer girl said her sister had sent her for the bag, and had left with a man who was accompanying her.

Mrs. Chinn described the girl as being five feet two inches tall medium build, dark hair and eyes, and fair complexion.

JAP BOMBS HIT U. S. UNIVERSITY

Canton Bombarded Again, Toll Raised to 3,000 Killed, 5,000 Wounded.

the work of caring for thousands of the injured was handicapped.

The city's telephone system was silenced.

Besides the power station and railroad terminal, which still was burning hours after the second raid, the Japanese explosive and incendiary bombs caused heaviest damage at a cement works and a British-owned water-works.

Government buildings, the Sun Yat-Sen memorial hall, commemorating the founder of China's Republic, and several schools and universities were damaged.

Three bombs, dropped from 31 raiding planes, struck the American-endowed Lingham university which is attended by several exchange students from the United States.

Japanese planes also raided Foochow, about 600 miles north of Canton, today, frightening the population but only dropping leaflets urging revolt against Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

(Fearful of bombardment later, Americans and other foreigners are painting flags on roofs of all their buildings and are preparing air raid shelters.)

(In Shanghai, a Japanese spokesman conceded civilian casualties in the Canton bombing had been "considerable but unavoidable," in destroying Chinese military establishments.)

Alarm was increased by phamphlets from Japanese war planes yesterday on Swatow, 170 miles northeast of Canton, warning that the war zone now was extended to South China and urging the seaport's inhabitants to flee immediately.

They warned "retreating chinese armies would occasion bloodshed although Japanese forces are anxious to protect lives."

Britain to Protest To Berlin, Rome.

LONDON—(INS)—Britain's government is planning vigorous representations to Rome and Berlin against the bombing of British ships in Spanish waters, International News Service was informed today.

This action may be taken as a result of an assertion by the Duke of Alba, General Francisco Franco's representative in London, that Franco is not responsible for and cannot control the activities of Italian and German planes operating in the Spanish civil war.

The representations, it was stated, may be made secretly to avoid the possibility of upsetting the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement.

Britain, it was learned, is now convinced the attacks on her ships in Spanish government ports are deliberate, and represent an effort by the insurgent air forces to enforce a blockade by means of aerial warfare.

The insurgents, it is believed, are resorting to these tactics in view of the international Nyon patrol against a submarine blockade. The Nyon patrol has proved highly effective

It was said that extension was agreed upon at a cabinet meeting yesterday

The present terms of service is two years, beginning at 20 years of age.

POLITICS PROBE UP TO SENATE

10 Democrats Back Request For Relief Fund Quiz.

WASHINGTON—(INS)— Backed by 10 Democrats, a resolution to create a special committee to investigate charges of political use of relief funds was placed before the senate today.

Introduced by Senator Tydings (D) of Maryland, and signed by nine of his colleagues, the resolution would empower Vice-President Garner to appoint a senate commitee of three for the investigation The committee would receive $10,000 for the inquiry, and be empowered to meet during the summer and subpoena government records, and witnesses.

Introduction of the resolution followed close on the heels of failure of three attempts in the senate to write into the huge relief bill provisions against use of the funds for "political purposes."

NEW PENNSY STATION DEPENDS ON UPTURN, RAIL MEN ASSERT

Conferring with representatives of the Pennsylvania railroad here today, a group of directors and officers of the Chamber of Commerce and its transportation committee heard that the railroad has been considering a new station for Mansfield but that realization depends on improvement in business conditions

The meeting was held this morning in the office of A E. Allen, vice president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and chairman of the C of C transportation committee. Representing the railroad were R C. Miller and E. K Chase, of Pittsburgh. Miller is general superintendent of the eastern Ohio division of the Pennsylvania and Chase is superintendent.

Miller and Chase told the Mansfield group that the railroad had hoped for the rehabilitation of the station here. They pointed out, however, that the company is operating at a loss, and that no steps toward actual construction could be taken until business conditions improve.

Obviously, Miller said, it would be impossible to say exactly when any action can be expected.

The Chamber of Commerce started negotiations a year ago to obtain a new Pennsylvania station here with Allen heading the committee.

PUSH DRIVE TO ISOLATE MADRID

Reach Point Within 12 Miles of Coastal City; Planes Renew Bomb Attacks.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, French Spanish Frontier — Nationalist forces reached a point 12 miles northwest of the coastal city of Castellon de la Plant today, in the drive from the Teruel front to cut Madrid off from the sea.

The nationalists announced occupation of Adzaneta and pushed south, putting the town of Villafames, eight miles north of Castellon, under artillery fire.

National aviation, artillery and tanks carried out a wide encirclement north and west of Castellon, threatening all loyalist communications on the left bank of the Mijares river. Part of the loyalists troops still clinging to the Albocacer region were being cut off.

Nationalist air activity continued. They bombed the port of Grao de Gandia, 40 miles south of Valencia. A British-owned dredge was hit by a bomb.

In the north 60 persons were reported killed and 80 wounded in a nationalist raid on the town of Figueras, north of Barcelona on the Franco-Spanish border. Forty buildings were destroyed.

The port of Gandia was bombed twice during the night. There were 13 other raids along the coast during the 24 hours ending early today. Alicante was bombed five times, Barcelona four times, Valencia twice, Segorbe once and Tarragona once. More than 200 bombs, largely incendiary, were loosed on Tarragona.

The British steamship English Tanker was struck during a raid on Alicante, and was reported destroyed by fire. Six bombs struck the British steamship Thorphaven and made it unnavigable. The British steamship Thurston, struck yesterday morning below the water line was in dry dock at Valencia.

OK'S GAS BILL AS EMERGENCY

Council Backs Rate Renewal 8 to 1; Utility Has 30 Days to Decide.

that the rates were sufficient.

Some discussion was given to trimming the present three-year contract to two years in order to take the issue out of an election year. However it was agreed that the city should take advantage of a three year rate while it was possible.

The renewal of the measure, if accepted by the gas company will continue the present rates of $1 for the first 500 cubic feet of gas and 50 cents per thousand for all over that.

The approval of the rate contract last night climaxes a month of negotiations with the gas company by councils utilities committee in which it proposed a rate that would have saved the consumer 25 cents per month on his present gas bill. This was met with a counter proposal from the company which submitted a rate of 74 cents per thousand to the 5,000-foot user. The company later made a concession by proposing a contract that would include the present rate of 65 cents per thousand if the city would agree to the 74-cent rate for an equal number of years.

Bill Passed by Senate To Aid In Gas Disputes.

The federal government, as the result of a measure passed yesterday by the senate, may soon take a hand in settling gas rate disputes involving utilities engaged in interstate shipment and sale of natural gas.

Washington dispatches today reported the speedy passage by the senate of a measure that would give the federal government broad jurisdiction over such transactions.

It now goes to the house for action on amendments. The house passed the bill in slightly different form a year ago. The measure was called before the senate by Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Ohio, who predicted the house would agree with the senate's changes.

City officials in Cleveland and other midwestern cities had been anxious to have the bill passed, claiming it would help them obtain lower rates.

The bill provides that the federal power commission may investigate the cost of property for rate-making purposes, and authorizes the commission to fix rates after hearings, but forbids it to increase rates. It imposes on all gas companies the duty of charging just and reasonable rates and requires them to file with the commission all rate schedules and contracts.

Mansfield might conceivably benefit if the measure becomes law. Although Mansfield is served by the Ohio Fuel Gas company, operating in Ohio, the Ohio Fuel bases its rates on the cost of gas it buys in West Virginia, from affiliated companies. Ohio Fuel and its affiliates are all subsidiaries of the Columbus Gas and Electric company.

CHAPTER XXIV

"He told me so. I wouldn't say anything about it, but I'm a pretty good friend of the Laynes. The old man worked here for years and Mr. Wardlaw always seemed to like him. It looks kind of funny that he would let young Griff go....especially after what happened to his sister. Looks to me like he had it in for the Laynes. I don't know, but it don't look fair to fire two workers out of one family. I don't mind telling you that I know it's going to make it pretty tough for Mrs. Layne. Her oldest girl teaches school, but that don't pay much."

"That is unfortunate," Clay remarked guardedly. "I'm sorry."

* * *

He was thinking fast. There was no question in his mind as to what had happened. It was his uncle. The old man had worked fast and, it seemed, with uncanny foresight. He not only had succeeded in tying Clay's hands, but, he had been careful to reiterate that the operating end of the mill was to remain in his own.

"I guess I shouldn't have told you," Wilbur Grant offered uneasily. "But there's been quite a little talk about it in the shop today. The boys thought you'd be more apt to do something about it, maybe, than Mr. Wardlaw would. I'm doing this on my own hook, just because there's been some foolish things said. You know...."

"That's quite all right, Grant." Clay knit his brows thoughtfully. 'I appreciate your feeling in the matter. I can't promise you that I can do anything about it. Frankly, the production end is entirely in Mr. Wardlaw's hands. If this is his arrangement, there is nothing I can do."

"You won't let on..."

"Of course not. I'm glad you told me."

"I wouldn't want to start anything, because I need my job, too."

"I understand." Clay walked away slowly in the direction of a long shed that served as a garage, climbed into his car and drove out of the mill yard. A futile rage obsessed him, and, with it all, a feeling of helplessness. Life certainly was timing its punches with rare precision. Why couldn't he have had that little interview with Grant one hour sooner! It would have made a lot of difference. Just one more wedge driven between him and the happiness he had dreamed of. There seemed little use in trying to work things out the right way.

He still was nursing his bitter reflections when he turned his car aimlessly into Main street. His morose glance suddenly encountered the slim form of a girl walking rapidly along the opposite side of the street.

Larry!

* * *

Following a blind and unreasoning impulse, Clay swung his car into the first vacant parking space and took up the pursuit on foot. He knew that he shouldn't accost her. But he had to. He had to tell her something, even if she refused to speak to him. He expected that she would be angry, but you could trust her not to make a scene. When he was almost at her side, he tipped his hat for the benefit of any passers-by, smiled and fell into step with her.

"Excuse me, Miss Layne," he said. "This is quite unpardonable. You don't need to speak to me, but I must tell you something."

He knew that she raised her eyes to his. But he was looking straight ahead.

"I seem to bring nothing but misfortune to you and yours," he went on. "And I always have to find it out at second hand. Only half an hour ago I was told by ...by one of the employes in the mill that your brother had been laid off. I hadn't heard it before, but I supose it is true."

"Quite," said a cool voice at his side.

"It's an outrage!" he exclaimed heatedly. 'I...."

"And quite to be expected," Larry interrupted. "If you will excuse me, Mr. Odell, I have an errand in here."

"Larry....please!"

* * *

But she was gone, leaving him to stare helplessly. Well, he had asked for it. You couldn't blame her. If Clay had known that her gray eyes were blinded with sudden tears as Larry hurried into the store that offered her a haven of refuge, he probably would have followed and taken matters in his own hands. At it was, there was nothing to do but make his way disconsolately back to his car.

It looked as if everything were washed up. With a muttered oath, Clay recalled what that Case girl had said....about Larry combing the town for a job. That's what the poor kid was doing out this afternoon, he concluded. Probably felt rather frantic over her brother's dismissal. Little wonder.

Clay was right in his surmise that Larry had been making another attempt to find work. There were three places remaining on her "forlorn hope" list and she had received a disinterested turndown from the last one only a few moments before her unfortunate encounter with Clay Odell.

The evening before, she and Muriel had been helping Mrs. Layne put their supper on the table when Griff entered the kitchen. Without a word of greeting, he tossed his tin lunch box on the table with a crash. He forced a laugh at his mother's gentle expostulation.

"Yeah? I was going to say when you wash that box you can stick it up on a high shelf. I'm through with it."

Griffith Layne! What are you talking about?"

* * *

Larry felt a sudden chill of apprehension as she loked at her brother's face. It seemed pale under the grime of his day's work; his mouth was drawn.

"Oh, nothing much. Lost my job's all."

"Griff...!"

The exclamation broke simultaneously from Mrs. Layne and Muriel. Larry said nothing. Her mouth felt suddenly dry. She saw her mother sink into a chair, as if these new tidings were almost too much. It was Muriel who spoke, with something like suppressed excitement.

"Did they lay off very many, Griff? Was it because work is slack?"

"I'm the only one, as far as I could find out. I got my time and money when I rang the clock. No explanation. I don't need any....not after what happened to the kid. They got it in for us. I don't know why." Larry and Muriel exchanged quick glances, the latter saying soothingly.

"It's a shame. But don't be too discouraged." She forced a smile . "I've still got my job and we can manage. They can't get me."

"I ain't so sure," Griff growled moodily. 'That old....he's on the school board, or said to be. He can get anybody in this town he likes. I wouldn't go sticking my neck out, if I were you."

"I hope you'll have better luck than I in getting a job," Larry remarked dully. "Maybe there's more chance here for a man."

"There's so little chance, I'm not going to even try," was the boy's despondent answer. "You've been walking your heels off. I'm not going to follow your trail and hear the laughs. And I won't stick around long, I'll go hoboing, if I have to....before I'll board here for nothing...."

* * *

As if she had not heard the boyish threat. Mrs. Layne remarked thoughtfully

"I used to know Romulus Wardlaw quite well, years ago. I wonder if it would do any good for me to ...."

"No!" Larry exclaimed hotly. "Don't you dare ask him for any favors, Mums! I'd starve first... and I don't intend to. But I'll never be under any obligation to that man! I'll run off with Griff, first."

"Nothing doing," her brother agreed. "Nobody in this family will ever give old man Wardlaw even a dirty look, if I have anything to say about it."

"Well," his mother comforted, "get washed up, sonny. Maybe we'll all feel better if we have our tea."

Late the following night, when the two sisters retired and Muriel already was in her bed, Larry sat on the side of hers staring reflectively at the softly glowing shade of a small lamp on the bedside table.

"Asleep, Muriel?"

"No." The older girl raised herself on an elbow. "What is it?"

"Oh, I've been thinking about this whole mess. You were awfully decent....about Old Rommy's coming here, I mean. I told you I didn't want to hear any of the details, but I'm not sure I don't now. From what you said, I understood that...that Mr. Odell...well, you didn't infer that he sent his uncle here, exactly..."

"He didn't say that at all, Larry. I'm sure I asked him particularly about that. I was dreadfully upset, but he gave me distinctly to understand that Mr. Odell was going to do as he wanted about....about everything."

"You're sure?"

"Positive. Why?"

"Oh, I was just wondering if there was a chance he didn't know. If Rommy came here on his own hook."

"Oh, I dont believe so, dear! You've ended your acquaintance with Mr. Odell, now. I wouldn't even give it another thought. The whole tribe is unspeakable!"

"Yes...but they still speak." Larry confessed. "Mr. Odell stopped me on the street this afternoon. In front of Herring's."

* * *

Muriel sat bolt upright. "I never heard of such effrontery! What did he say?"

"Said he had to speak to me and intended to, whether I liked or not. He had just heard about Griff....so he claimed. Within a half hour. Then he said it was an outrage and..."

"You didn't answer him, I hope."

"I did. I said I agreed with him. Then I turned my back on him and went into Herring's. Left him still talking...I guess."

"Good for you. That ought to put him in his place. And, once, I thought he was such a gentleman."

"But, don't you see....?" Larry continued thoughtfully. "If he were telling me the truth, maybe he didn't know about his uncle...."

"Oh, he knew!" Muriel exclaimed with unwonted severity. "And if he didn't what can you do about it....now?"

Whitney Swings a Mop and Pail at Sing Sing Prison

OSSINING, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Richard Whitney has gone to work with a mop and pail in Sing Sing prison.

Whitney, sentenced to serve from five to ten years for grand larceny, was assigned to a temporary job as tier-man, a position which brings him privileges that were denied him as a member of the recruit company His first job was to clean out the tier halls in the old cell block that he now calls home.

Officials indicated that he soon would be raised to a higher status —possibly a teacher in the prison school. A member of a distinguished New England family and a graduate of Groton and Harvard, he brought to the prison an academic and financial background which, it was believed, would be put to use in the Sing Sing classes.

He now enjoys the freedom of the prison yard, can move about without a guard and can receive visitors.

EX-JUDGE HITS JUVENILE COURT

Brands Procedure As Rapidly Going Toward Fascism.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—(AP)—Jesse Olney, former judge of the superior court, is in favor of doing away with juvenile courts.

"It is fast developing into a complete system of fascism," he writes in the California State Bar Journal. "Our youth are jailed, bailed, granted or denied rights on the mere order of probation officers, county attorneys, sheriffs and other executive officers."

On the other side, it "presents the great loophole to young criminals in their escape from punishment," he writes. "We turn them over to the juvenile court, which turns him again loose on the community on probation."

BUTLER SCHOOL HEAD RENAMED

Weekley Receives Two-Year Contract, Action Delayed on 11 Teaching Posts.

Willard S. Weekley had been given a two-year contract today as superintendent of the Butler village schools, while five other teachers were re-employed for the 1938-39 term.

Weekley came to the Butler schools last year from Cheshire, O., under a one-year contract.

In rehiring five of the teachers, the Butler board of education left 11 of the 16 teaching posts vacant in the district, at least temporarily. There was no indication, however, that some of the present teachers would not be re-employed at a session to be called within the next three weeks.

The teachers whose contracts were renewed were:

Miss Dorotha Shaffer, Miss Vaughn Ullman and Miss Lucille Summers, high school; W. L. Beal and Foster Laribee, grades.

Miss Helen Grof was employed to teach the first and second grades in the Butler schools, replacing a teacher who resigned.

BELGIANS FEAR RUIN OF CITIES IF WAR COMES

Nearby Countries Within 10 Minutes Air Attacking Time, Minister Says.

(By United Press)

BRUSSELS—The fate of Belgium's civilian population in the air warfare of another European conflict would be appalling, according to Albert Deveze, former Belgian minister for national defense.

"What happened in Spain and at Shanghai would be nothing compared with our fate if Belgium were dragged into a general war," he said. "Just consider the tremendous air armadas of Belgium's neighbors and the smallness of our territory. Our cities are situated so close together that the devastation that could be caused in a few hours is fearful to think of."

That explains why the Belgian government today is working feverishly to protect the civilian population against air attacks.

Just Inside Border.

Liege, first Belgian city to fall to the Germans in the World war, lies only 31 miles from the Belgo-German frontier. Charleroi, one of Belgium's great industrial centers is only 60 miles from the frontier Brussels itself is 90 miles — less than a half-hour's flight for fast bombers—from the border

Brussels, the fortified city of Antwerp, the important ports of Ghent and Ostend and the factories of Charleroi all would be the objectives of immediate air onslaughts if Belgium were caught in another European war All are almost equally vulnerable. The powerful fortress-city of Liege, with its great steel works and arms factories, would be bombed immediately on outbreak of war

Belgium's preparations for protecting civilians against air raids are in the hands of two organizations — the Commissariat de Defense Passive Aerienna, or the commission of passive war defense, and the Ligue de Protection Aerienne—air protective league They co-operate with the Red Cross

Concrete air raid shelters already have been constructed in many Belgian cities. Some, shaped like beehives, can accommodate 20 persons A few can hold as many as 700 Other shelters have been built in underground cellars More are of concrete, 4 feet thick

Probably only 10 minutes would intervene between the first air raid signal and the arrival of hostile planes. In each city throughout the country volunteers are being trained intensively to carry out the evacuation of civilians and provide them with gas masks. At the same time local Red Cross squads would be called out to take over emergency hospitals.

Plans also have been made to evacuate whole populations of cities if necessary.

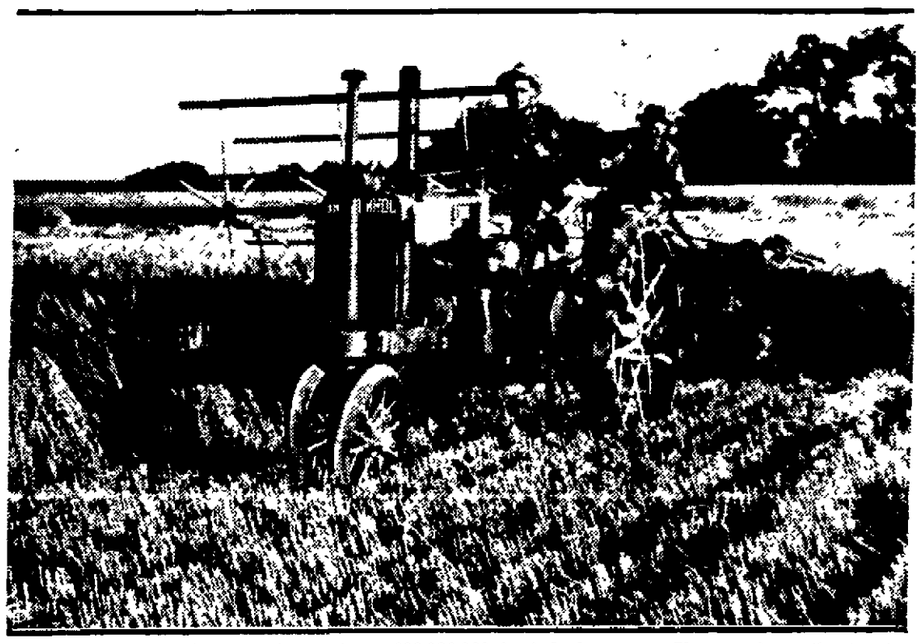
Kansas Farmers Harvest Largest Wheat Crop



What promises to be one of the greatest wheat harvests in the history of Kansas is under way, two weeks before the usual cutting time. Expected yield for the state has been placed as high as 200,000,000 bushels by experts, a yield exceeded only once. One of the first farmers in the state to enter his wheat field with a binder is G. Graham, shown on the binder. His son Clarence is on the tractor. Graham says wheat on his 300-acre farm will average better than 30 bushels to the acre. The entire U. S. wheat harvest is expected to be one of the largest, if not the largest, on record.

TWO MORE YOUNGSTERS TO GET CHANCE AT FAME IN FILMLAND

(By International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Charles R. Rogers, firm believer in "nothing risked, nothing gained," is really going to town on that policy in a few days.

Production chief at Universal, Rogers will give two other young girls the same opportunity for stardom the studio gave little Deanna Durbin. More than $1,000,000 was risked somewhat over a year ago on the belief Deanna really had something. The returns were like manna.

Almost equal sums will be put out on Helen Parish, 16, and Helen Greco, 12.

Rogers, whose creed lifted him from a haberdashery salesman to one of the biggest jobs in Hollywood, is confident they'll catch on with the public as quickly as Deanna did. Deanna is now one of the big box office attractions, but, before Universal gave her a chance, another studio, which had her under contract for $50 a week, let go. It didn't think she was worth it.

Helen Parrish, who has played a few small parts, will be co-starred in a romantic role with Joel McCrea in "Three Girls Leave Town." Her best role to date was as the "meanie" in Deanna's "Mad About Music." It wasn't very big, but it made Rogers confident she has what it takes for Hollywood success.

Helen, who came here with her family from Columbus, Ga., when she was a baby, is still a high school sophomore.

When she heard of her big break she said: "I could scarcely breathe, I was so excited. I have been given my heart's desire."

Like Deanna, Helen Greco is a singer. She will have her chance in "Little Lady," a story written for her by Sophie Cleugh, English novelist. It will go into production within two weeks, with the Parrish vehicle following shortly.

EDUCATOR LEADS GUERRILLA BAND

Chinese Professor Forsakes Classroom For Deadly War.

SHANGHAI, China — (AP) — Dr. Yang Siu-ling, one of China's best-known professors of economics, has forsaken the classroom for a deadly game of hide-and-seek with Japan.

The educator is leading 10,000 Chinese guerrillas against Japanese troops from the Taiheng mountains along the Hopei-Shansi border in Northwest China, it is reported here.

Dr. Yang was residing in Peiping when that city was occupied by the Japanese last summer. Leaving a life of semi-retirement, he disappeared from the city and was not heard from until recently when his name was mentioned in Chinese dispatches as the leader of a band of guerrillas engaged in raiding Japanese garrisons along the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

"FREE" in Shell Oil
(UP TO THE FULL MARK)
if I forget to check it"

YOU can have a lot of trouble if you run out of oil. Burned-out bearings, for instance, or scuffed pistons, or maybe even a cylinder-rebore job.

That's why we Shell dealers are making you this special proposition:

Drive into any Shell station.

If we don't check your oil—and you catch us up on it—we'll bring your oil level up to the full mark absolutely free of charge.

What's more, we'll put in our Golden Shell Oil—the oil that has been made especially for today's stop-and-go driving conditions.

Maybe you never knew that stop and go calls for a certain kind of oil. Here's why it does:

You average ten cold starts a day. If your motor oil is sluggish and slow-flowing, one start can cause as much wear as 50 miles of steady running.

Golden Shell changes this. It's fast-flowing. The second you step on your starter, it coats each engine part with a tough oil film that doesn't break down . . . even under the heat of your steady running.

• • •

Senate Takes Up House Appeal for U. S. Relief Funds

20 MILLIONS ASKED IN PLEA TO CONGRESS

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Speaker Frank Uible of the house of representatives said that he will appoint late today a nine-member Democratic house committee in another attempt to work out an acceptable state relief program.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—A house approved resolution asking congress to make $20,000,000 in federal funds available for direct relief in Ohio went to the senate for consideration today over protests that the legislature was trying to evade its own responsibility.

The action was in line with a plan to urge the federal government, despite previous rebuffs, to assume the major burden of relief financing in Ohio, once the general assembly has passed a new $1,500,000 stop-gap bill to relieve the immediate crisis in the state's hard hit industrial centers.

Floundering helplessly in the relief snarl, leaders looked upon the stop-gap as a way out until it is definitely decided whether congress will earmark funds under the lending-spending program for direct relief.

Seeks Legal Test.

The senate finance committee sought advice from the attorney general's office on the legal soundness of the Connolly bill to appropriate $1,500,000 from 1938 sales tax collections and allow cities to borrow in anticipation. The bill is designed to replace the original $1,000,000 relief loan bill and may be brought to a vote today if legal difficulties are ironed out.

The house, despite charges of refusal to face the issue of relief as a state problem, approved by a viva voce vote the Disalle-De Righter resolution memorializing congress to make $250,000,000 available for direct relief and give Ohio $20,000,000 of it.

Rep. William Whetro (D., Lawrence) voiced the most vigorous protest.

"If we can't solve this problem ourselves, let's get the hell out of here and go home," he said.

The new resort to appeals for federal help was tentatively decided upon at another of Speaker Frank R. Uible's conferences with legislators and lobbyists when it was proved that the proposal to earmark two and one-half per cent of most funds in the state treasury for relief purposes could not be enacted during a special session.

The senate passsed and sent to the house the Lawrence bill authorizing issuance of bonds against 70 per cent of delinquent tax collections for poor relief.

Its sponsors claimed it would make ample funds available for cities, but municipal officials said it would do little good where money is most needed.

Sen. Horace W. Baggott (D., Montgomery) introduced in the senate a bill to license vending machines at a rate of from $3 to $12 annually to raise relief funds.

Woman, Bitten By Snake, Confident Of 'Faith Cure'

HAMMOND, La.— (INS) — Her arm swollen to thrice its normal size, Mrs. Joe Rushing, 56, today showed signs of improvement as she battled for her life after being bitten by a poisonous moccasin as a demonstration of faith at a state convention meeting of the Holy Roller religious sect.

"Faith will cure me," said the woman, as she continued to refuse medical aid and special prayer services for her recovery were held.

Mrs. Rushing was bitten twice by the snake after seven other persons handled the snake without being harmed.

Meanwhile, a school teacher asserted that he had drained the snake of its venom and expressed the opinion that the snake would not kill anyone. He explained the ill effects of the bite by saying that he had "milked" the snake of its poison a week ago and the poison sacs had begun to fill again. He said he had caught the snake for study by his nature class in school.

Up and Down THE STREET

The first appearance that the new Red Cross First Aid car made was at Liberty park, Sunday, and workers had an opportunity to demonstrate its value. The first accident was when a girl who stepped in a rut, sprained her ankle and fainted. Workers took her to the house car, revived her and bandaged her ankle. The second accident was a burned arm on a worker at one of the concession. And in the third accident workers dressed a wound in a girl's hand. Both were treated quickly. The Red Cross chapter hopes to make the car a permanent service at all large public gatherings.

In a restaurant the other day he accidentally knocked over a salt shaker and spilled some of the salt, which, if you know your jinxes, is almost as bad as breaking a mirror. Faculty members at Senior high school haven't been able to get much work done since the "Manhigan," the school annual, was distributed to the students last Friday. The students all try to get the autograph of each teacher at the school, and like the G-Men, always "get their man." In some instances students stand in line to get teachers' autograph while others try to corner teachers while walking down the hall.

NEW CAR READY

First Aid Truck to Be Used at Public Gatherings.

A first aid car has been fitted up by the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross and will appear at all large public gatherings, it was announced today by Harker A. Enlow, director of first aid.

A house car has been rented by the chapter and made its first public appearance at the opening of Liberty park Sunday.

Arrangements have already been made for the Red Cross First Aid car to be at the Soap Box derby, the Fourth of July celebration at the Fairground, every day at the county fair, and also at the Shelby street fair.

The car is plainly marked by Red Cross flags, and is manned by four trained first aid workers, both men and women. It is equipped with all first aid supplies.

Enlow said that the car will be sent to any large gathering if there is a request for it.

'Y' ENDS YEAR WITH $42 CASH

The Y. M. C. A. completed its fiscal year, which ended June 1, with a balance of $42.07 in its operating budget, it was reported at a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday evening at the Evergreens cafeteria.

The report, submitted by Herman Balyeat, treasurer, showed a total income at the "Y" during the year of $9,852.03, and cost of operations of $9,809 96.

Sources of the income were the Mansfield Community Fund, memberships, rent of the gymnasium, and the sale of soap and towels to those using the showers. Operating costs included heat, light, water, insurance, salaries, and repairs to the building.

The report showed that since the Y. M. C. A. was re-organized in 1931 it has finished each year without a deficit in its operating Ludget.

The housing committee, headed by R. M. Calene, was instructed to check on the cost of reconditioning of the "Y" swimming pool with the possibility that it may be reopened for use in early fall.

A report of the Y. M. C. A. daytime summer camping program was given by Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary, and reports of the finance committee were given by Harvey Bailey, chairman. Charles Nail, board president, presided at the meeting.

An affidavit in the audit report said that Wilker had admitted drinking from the bottles, refilling them with water and then returning them to stock. Both men have resigned.

OHIO SENATORS TRADE BLASTS IN TIFF OVER TOWNSEND FLAG

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Bernie McCluskey, astute senator-lawyer from Cleveland, still was carrying the ball for the Townsendites in the Ohio senate today after side-stepping the attempted tackles of Sen. John Myers of Canton.

Senator Myers has been beating the drum for the Townsend old age pension plan for four years, he said. In the last session he introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the federal constitution to put the plan into effect.

The peppery senator from Canton had planned to re-introduce the resolution in the current session when McCluskey, who previously had exhibited but little interest in the proposition, beat him to it.

So yesterday Myers proceeded to tell McCluskey what he thought of him.

"No senator would want to exploit the plight of these aged people," he said. "Yet my colleague from Cleveland tried to make himself a hero and put on one of the greatest one-act political plays we have ever seen."

He asked McCluskey why he introduced the resolution.

"I was asked to by an official of the Townsend national organization," McCluskey replied. "He said he didn't want the senator from Canton to handle the resolution; that the senator was a traitor to the cause."

"I'll leave it to my colleagues whether I'm a traitor to the cause," Myers shouted. "Dr. Townsend (founder of the movement) doesn't think so."

The resolution was referred to the taxation-relief committee over the strong protests of Myers, who contended it should have been considered by the senate in committee of the whole.

The clinics are held to detect defects in child health so that corrections can be made before the child starts to school in September.

BIG VOTE HELD INDICATION OF FALL SUCCESS

Republicans Receive Twice as Many Votes as Dems; Hail Swing Back.

(By United Press)

DES MOINES, Ia.—The polling of almost twice as many Republican as Democratic votes in the Iowa primary presaged a G. O. P. victory in the November election, Republican leaders claimed today.

The Republicans, by an unexpected display of voting strength, shared honors with Sen. Guy M. Gillette, who won the Democratic renomination to the U. S. senate despite opposition of the New Deal.

He defeated Rep. Otha D. Wearin, endorsed by New Deal leaders, by approximately two to one. Lester J. Dickerson won the Republican senatorial nomination from Rep. Lloyd Thurston by 40,258 votes.

Complete, unofficial returns from the state's 2,447 precincts, gave Gillettee 82,142, Wearin, 44,955; and Dickinson, 149,595, Thurston, 109,337. The total vote of the three Democratic minority candidates was 34,919.

Loses 84 Counties.

Wearin, who had received support of Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administration chief, and James Roosevelt, son of the president, led in only 15 of the state's 99 counties. Gillette took the rest and eight of the nine congressional districts.

Both Republicans and anti-New Dealers were jubilant over Gillette's victory and interpreted it as a defeat for the national administration at the hands of the Iowa Democratic state machine. The heavy Republican vote brought varying reactions from leaders of both parties.

The Republicans pronounced it as evidence of a swing back to the G. O. P. The Democratic leaders, however, pointed to the fact they were outpolled two to one in the primary two years ago but were victorious in the general election of 1936.

In the contest for governor, George A. Wilson, the Republican candidate, polled twice as large a vote as Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, the Democratic choice. Neither was opposed.

Incumbent members of congress, with the exception of Wearin and Thurston, were renominated without difficulty.

TAKE 'PLEDGE'

Liquor Dealers Agree to Strict Law Observance.

More than 50 members of the Richland county Permit Holders association last night pledged themselves to abide by all city ordinances and state regulations pertaining to their business.

Earl C. Pollock, secretary of the organization said the group had agreed to adhere strictly to the city ordinance regulating the closing hours and had agreed to follow all regulations set up by the state board of liquor control governing the Sunday sale of beer.

The meeting was held in the Grotto hall, King building. The group heard short talks by liquor dealers who were established in the business before prohibition. Those who spoke were William Hipp, Joseph Sherrer, Edward Burghard, William Knittle and Christy Webber, of Plymouth. John Miller, president of the organization presided at the meeting.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The recent distribution of easy money to a few Americans through the Irish sweepstakes revives the yearnings of many citizens for an official national lottery to be conducted for the benefit of the United States treasury and the relief of the taxpayers. Proposals have been made in congress to organize such a gamble, usually with a prediction that the government would receive a billion a year on the basis of a 40 per cent take. That would mean a gross business of $2,500,000,000 a year.

These predictions are all dream stuff, however. They are made of hope and conjecture, and they ignore the known facts.

* * *

It is a known fact that in 1935, in the eighteen American states which permitted and supervised racing by running and harness horses and dogs, the total amount gambled was only $257,562,000, a little more than a quarter of a billion dollars. This excludes the racing in New York state and New Orleans, on which there were no data because of the absence of official supervision. The total return to the eighteen states was only $8,976,000.

This was open, legal gambling, and the figures would seem to embarrass the enormous estimates which the police and prosecutors place upon the penny-ante numbers racket.

* * *

One reads of the millions handled by furtive, underworld creatures such as the late "Dutch" Schultz, of New York, and his political silent partners, but, comparing the method and the average amount of the bets with the horse park traffic, one is compelled to doubt. A "Dutch" Schultz with a flash roll of $10,000 in currency may seem to be a millionaire. But it is known that the numbers racket deals in bets on pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters and must operate more or less secretly. It is hard to believe that the numbers racket handles as much as the licensed race tracks, with their open facilities and publicity.

* * *

The British are great gamblers, but the Glasgow Herald, in a careful survey of the football pools, which roughly correspond to the numbers racket in this country, except that they are legal and widely advertised, found that the gross handle for a season of 36 weeks was not more than $200,000,000. The football pools pretend to operate on a parimutuel system, but there is no assurance that they do, because the British law does not regulate them. Ostensibly they retain only 5 per cent as profit, but that is only what the operators say.

The Irish sweep conducts three pools a year, and it is understood that this country, Ireland's best customer since the British placed a legal boycott on the sweep, buys about 50 per cent of the tickets. It is hard to obtain true figures on the amount of the American trade, but in last year's Cesarewitch it was announced that the Americans had bought about $7,000,000 of an issue slightly less than $14,000,000.

* * *

If this figure may be taken as an index we buy $7,000,000 worth of Irish sweep tickets three times a year, a total of $21,000,000, which looks very puny in comparison with the hundreds of millions which we are said to export to Ireland. These hundreds of millions of dream money are cited as one of the strongest arguments in favor of an American national lottery. The idea is to keep the money at home. But if the amount is only $21,000,000 a year it is unimportant economically.

Anyway, the real figures, whenever it is possible to dig them out, discourage the idea that this country gambles in billions or would gamble in billions if we had a lottery. There is no law against wishing, but the statistics are against fulfillment.

* * *

As to the morality of the sweep, there is little to be said in opposition when many of the state permit open gambling on the races and take a percentage. But it can be pointed out, in addition to the apparent overestimate of the probable profits, that we have one of the few countries on earth which have no national lottery and that those countries which do have them are not conspicuously happy. In theory lotteries may be very tempting, but in practice the nations which use them soon find themselves no better off.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jetta Goudal, who was once described in a court suit by her then employer Cecil B. DeMille as a "cocktail of emotions," won the legal right to be "temperamental" as a result of that battle. The court held that an actress's "temperament" was part of her equipment.

It was a fine victory, although by coincidence Jetta never worked importantly again. She has been happily married for some years now to Harold Grieve, prominent interior decorator, and she works with her husband at his profession.

Not long ago one of her former studio associates, with whom she had tangled more than once, encountered her and was greeted most pleasantly. Jetta's friendly remarks, as reported by him: "It is so much fun not being in pictures any more. I can enjoy life and—just think!—I don't have to be mean about anything!"

* * *

It would be interesting to trace the rise of the school of stellar thought that holds a star, to be successful, must be "difficult." It certainly ante-dated Jetta Goudal, for some of Hollywood's best temperament tales reached circulation in the period from 1915 to 1920 when stars were first feeling their oats.

The director, Josef von Sternberg, was a disciple, if not the high priest, of the theory. Joe had made a quickie called "Salvation Hunters" which won the support of the quick-growing colony's "intelligentsia." Even before that, showman that he was, he had made it his business to be as spectacularly insulting as possible to the right people.

"I've just made five new enemies," he once chuckled, confidentially, to some cronies.

It was Pola Negri's own idea, apparently, as she came before Joe. Her battles with Gloria Swanson became Hollywood legend. Pola's campaign, as she admitted privately when pressed, was logical. "There are many girls in Hollywood prettier than Negri—so Negri must be different!"

But Marlene Dietrich, who can be as sweet as pie when she wants to be, undoubtedly took instruction direct from her mentor, von Sternberg.

That director set her off beautifully at a studio luncheon presenting her to the assembled press. "Miss Dietrich," he remarked in effect, "is not only beautiful but is far more intelligent than anyone here present."

* * *

Miss Dietrich's popularity or lack of it with many members of the correspondent corps, especially the feminine contingent, may be said to date from that moment, but in subsequent years she has shown herself to be an apt pupil. Marlay-nah's not mean—she just has the reputation of being "difficult," which probably is truly part of "glamour."

Simone Simon came from France with certain ideas of her own about how "difficile" a foreign star should be, and immediately began living up to them. Later, repentant, she confided to intimates that she had been inspired by the advice of another foreign star—and Hollywood said, "Dietrich?"

* * *

The "be hard to handle" theory, of course, is proved fallacious by many of our most successful stars, who get ahead by being themselves and being darn good actors and actresses. People like Warner Baxter, Ronald Colman, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, Ginger Rogers — all of them rather well established—are not devoid of occasional flashes of "temperament" but they manage to be consistently human and regular people for all that.

BELGIANS FEAR RUIN OF CITIES IF WAR COMES

Nearby Countries Within 10 Minutes Air Attacking Time, Minister Says.

(By United Press)

BRUSSELS—The fate of Belgium's civilian population in the air warfare of another European conflict would be appalling, according to Albert Deveze, former Belgian minister for national defense.

"What happened in Spain and at Shanghai would be nothing compared with our fate if Belgium were dragged into a general war," he said. "Just consider the tremendous air armadas of Belgium's neighbors and the smallness of our territory. Our cities are situated so close together that the devastation that could be caused in a few hours is fearful to think of."

That explains why the Belgian government today is working feverishly to protect the civilian population against air attacks.

Just Inside Border.

Liege, first Belgian city to fall to the Germans in the World war, lies only 31 miles from the Belgo-German frontier. Charleroi, one of Belgium's great industrial centers, is only 60 miles from the frontier. Brussels itself is 90 miles — less than a half-hour's flight for fast bombers—from the border

Brussels, the fortified city of Antwerp, the important ports of Ghent and Ostend and the factories of Charleroi all would be the objectives of immediate air onslaughts if Belgium were caught in another European war All are almost equally vulnerable. The powerful fortress-city of Liege, with its great steel works and arms factories, would be bombed immediately on outbreak of war.

Belgium's preparations for protecting civilians against air raids are in the hands of two organizations — the Commissariat de Defense Passive Aerienna, or the commission of passive war defense, and the Ligue de Protection Aerienne—air protective league They co-operate with the Red Cross

Concrete air raid shelters already have been constructed in many Belgian cities. Some, shaped like beehives, can accommodate 20 persons. A few can hold as many as 700 Other shelters have been built in underground cellars More are of concrete, 4 feet thick

Probably only 10 minutes would intervene between the first air raid signal and the arrival of hostile planes. In each city throughout the country volunteers are being trained intensively to carry out the evacuation of civilians and provide them with gas masks. At the same time local Red Cross squads would be called out to take over emergency hospitals.

Plans also have been made to evacuate whole populations of cities if necessary.

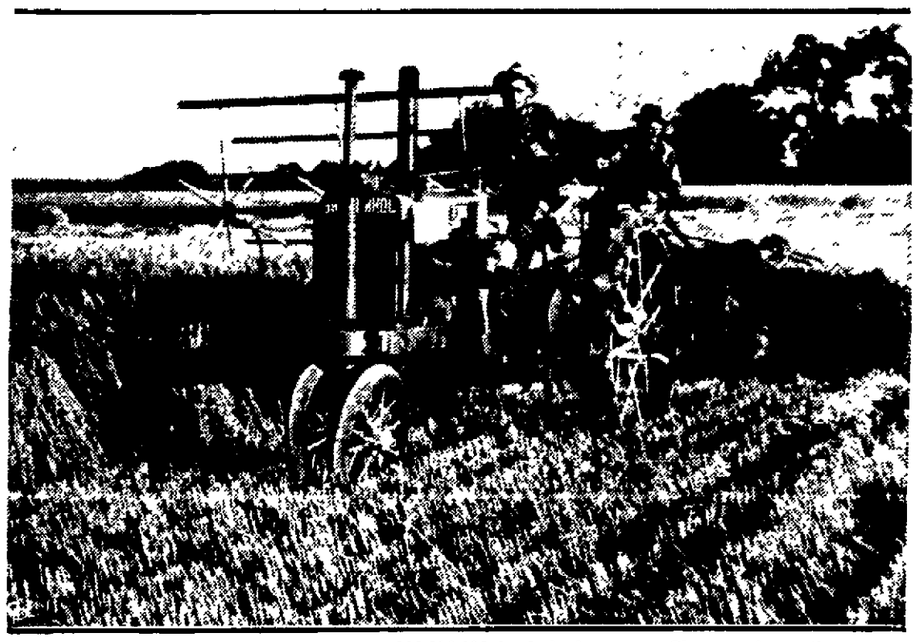
Kansas Farmers Harvest Largest Wheat Crop



What promises to be one of the greatest wheat harvests in the history of Kansas is under way, two weeks before the usual cutting time. Expected yield for the state has been placed as high as 200,000,000 bushels by experts, a yield exceeded only once. One of the first farmers in the state to enter his wheat field with a binder is G. Graham, shown on the binder. His son Clarence is on the tractor. Graham says wheat on his 300-acre farm will average better than 30 bushels to the acre. The entire U. S. wheat harvest is expected to be one of the largest, if not the largest, on record.

TWO MORE YOUNGSTERS TO GET CHANCE AT FAME IN FILMLAND

(By International News Service)

Production chief at Universal, Rogers will give two other young girls the same opportunity for stardom the studio gave little Deanna Durbin. More than $1,000,000 was risked somewhat over a year ago on the belief Deanna really had something. The returns were like manna.

Almost equal sums will be put out on Helen Parish, 16, and Helen Greco, 12.

Rogers, whose creed lifted him from a haberdashery salesman to one of the biggest jobs in Hollywood, is confident they'll catch on with the public as quickly as Deanna did. Deanna is now one of the big box office attractions, but, before Universal gave her a chance, another studio, which had her under contract for $50 a week, let go. It didn't think she was worth it.

Helen Parrish, who has played a few small parts, will be co-starred in a romantic role with Joel McCrea in "Three Girls Leave Town." Her best role to date was as the "meanie" in Deanna's "Mad About Music." It wasn't very big, but it made Rogers confident she has what it takes for Hollywood success.

When she heard of her big break she said: "I could scarcely breathe, I was so excited. I have been given my heart's desire."

Like Deanna, Helen Greco is a singer. She will have her chance in "Little Lady," a story written for her by Sophie Cleugh, English novelist. It will go into production within two weeks, with the Parrish vehicle following shortly.

EDUCATOR LEADS GUERRILLA BAND

Chinese Professor Forsakes Classrooms For Deadly War.

SHANGHAI, China — (AP) — Dr. Yang Siu-ling, one of China's best-known professors of economics, has forsaken the classroom for a deadly game of hide-and-seek with Japan.

The educator is leading 10,000 Chinese guerrillas against Japanese troops from the Taiheng mountains along the Hopei-Shansi border in Northwest China, it is reported here.

Dr. Yang was residing in Peiping when that city was occupied by the Japanese last summer. Leaving a life of semi-retirement, he disappeared from the city and was not heard from until recently when his name was mentioned in Chinese dispatches as the leader of a band of guerrillas engaged in raiding Japanese garrisons along the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

Shell Oil
(UP TO THE FULL MARK)

"if I forget to check it"

YOU can have a lot of trouble if you run out of oil. Burned-out bearings, for instance, or scuffed pistons, or maybe even a cylinder-rebore job.

That's why we Shell dealers are making you this special proposition:

Drive into any Shell station.

If we don't check your oil—and you catch us up on it—we'll bring your oil level up to the full mark absolutely free of charge.

What's more, we'll put in our Golden Shell Oil—the oil that has been made especially for today's stop-and-go driving conditions.

Maybe you never knew that stop and go calls for a certain kind of oil. Here's why it does:

You average ten cold starts a day. If your motor oil is sluggish and slow-flowing, one start can cause as much wear as 50 miles of steady running.

Golden Shell changes this. It's fast-flowing. The second you step on your starter, it coats each engine part with a tough oil film that doesn't break down . . . even under the heat of your steady running.

• • •
